Democratic Chiefs Try to Avoid Veto Of Tax Revision Bill

Private Retirement System Proposal Termed Obstacle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic lieutenants maneuvered today to avoid a situation in which President Kennedy might feel he had to veto the administration's tax revision bill.

Involved is an amendment being pressed in the Senate by Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois to attach to the measure a House-passed bill to set up a tax deductible retirement system for self-employed persons.

As many as 80 of the 100 senators are reported to be committed to support this proposal.

Everybody concerned thinks Kennedy would veto the measure if it came to him separately. The opinion is just about as unanimous that he would veto the parent tax bill if such a provision is included.

Tax Credit Periled

A veto of the parent bill would mean the junking of his proposal for a 7 per cent tax credit for business plant investment. This provision, agreed to by voters of both houses, has been counted upon by the administration to soften some of the business opposition aroused in the steel price rollback.

To avoid wasting the months Congress has spent on the tax measure, administration lieutenants were working desperately to line up Senate votes to sidetrack the self-employed proposal until after the parent bill is passed.

The outcome of this touch-and-go effort seemed likely to rest on a firm promise that the self-employed measure would be taken up immediately after the tax bill.

Plans Tabling Motion

A pledge to get a final vote on the self-employed proposal before the Senate takes up the trade bill might give the administration sufficient votes to table Dirksen's amendment. Democratic leaders reportedly were convinced they had enough votes to do it.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he plans to make a tabling motion—which automatically cuts off debate.

Defeat of the motion to table would indicate the Senate intends to write the amendment into the bill.

Johnson Asks Italy's Economic Backing

ROME (AP)—U.S. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson called on prospering Italy today to pitch in and give the United States a helping economic hand.

Johnson, nearing the end of his six-nation tour, made his appeal in talks with Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani and Foreign Minister Atilio Piccioni.

Authoritative American sources said Johnson expressed the hope that Italy could help offset some of the drain of gold reserves from the United States, and contribute to the development of underdeveloped countries.

The sources said Johnson pointed out that the United States, which maintains American forces in Italy as part of North Atlantic Treaty Organization defense, spends $100 million a year in Italy.

Spacecraft on New Course Toward Venus

Scientists Elated By Successful Correction Efforts

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The United States' Mariner 2 spacecraft streaked toward Venus today after changing to a new course scientists say will take it within 9,000 miles of the mystery planet.

The course change was made Tuesday in a spectacular maneuver 15 million miles from earth. Aboard the 447-pound vehicle are instruments that may tell whether life could exist on Venus, virtually a twin of earth in size.

If these instruments work as designed during a 30-minute fly-by Dec. 14, Mariner 2 will score a significant first in space for this country. The Soviet Union's Venus probe last year missed the cloud-shrouded planet by 82,000 miles—and its radios were dead.

Won't Hit Planet

An electronic whiff of Venus is all U.S. scientists ask of Mariner 2. Unsterilized, it was never intended to impact Venus but to miss it by 10,000 miles and go on into a giant orbit around the sun.

The 12-foot-tall spacecraft, launched Aug. 25 from Cape Canaveral, Fla., went through the intricate maneuver to overcome a bad start. A rolling motion by its Atlas-Agena booster during liftoff sent Mariner 23,000 miles off course.

Scientists at the U.S. space agency's Jet Propulsion Laboratory here spent days measuring the amount of error. Then, at 3:49 p.m. Tuesday they started sending a series of radio messages that commanded the spacecraft to point its nose in a different direction.

3 Persons Die in Auto Accidents

Three deaths in separate accidents raised Wisconsin's 1962 highway toll to 611 today, compared with 595 on this day a year ago.

Mrs. Mildred L. Bluma, 35, of Stevens Point was killed early Wednesday when the car in which she was riding stalled on Highway 41 eight miles south of Fond du Lac and was struck from the rear by a semi-trailer rig.

Ronald Warichak, 3, of West Allis, was injured fatally Tuesday when the car driven by his mother went out of control and veered into a ditch near Waukegan.

President Says U. S. Will Take Necessary Steps to Avert War in Hemisphere

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has warned that the United States will take "whatever means may be necessary" to prevent Cuba from turning its growing supplies of Soviet arms against any part of the Western Hemisphere.

Kennedy said the Soviet Union has provided the Castro regime with a variety of military equipment, including short-range missiles and torpedo boats.

But he added there was no evidence of any organized combat force in Cuba from any Communist bloc country or any significant buildup of Cuban offensive capabilities.

"Were it otherwise, the gravest issues would arise," said Kennedy.

Meets Congress Leaders

He declared: "It continues to be the policy of the United States that the Castro regime will not be allowed to export its aggressive purposes by force or threat of force."

Kennedy's statement, giving new details on the current Russian shipments to Cuba, was issued by the White House Tuesday night after the President and top aides conferred for an hour with Democratic and Republican congressional leaders.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara were slated to brief a joint meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees on the situation today.

Kennedy's announcement appeared to have a multiple purpose—to keep the public informed, to tell Castro and the Kremlin to keep hands off the rest of the Americas, and to offset domestic criticism urging more drastic action against Cuba.

13 Oil Company Executives Killed in Ohio Plane Crash

Private Craft Explodes and Burns as It Plunges on Farm

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — Thirteen men died in the crash and explosion of a two-engine private airplane on a farm southeast of here Tuesday night. It was the worst industrial aircraft accident in the nation's history.

The twin-engine Lockheed Lodestar, owned by the Ashland Oil & Refining Co., was carrying executives from subsidiary companies in Cleveland and Buffalo to Ashland, Ky. for a sales meeting today.

There were no survivors. The death toll of 13 exceeded by one the previous high for an industrial aircraft accident—a crash near Shreveport, La. on Jan. 10, 1954. The crash of a Continental Oil Co. plane near Marion, Ohio, on July 1, 1959, took 10 lives.

It was over Lake Milton about 8:30 p.m. when witnesses heard sounds that indicated trouble and saw the plane go into a spin, crashing in bright orange flames that lit the sky.

The tremendous explosion littered Glenn Sickle's 40-acre farm field with human and mechanical wreckage. One piece of the fuselage was found a mile away.

The blast dug a crater five feet deep and about 20 feet in diameter.

Among those the Frontier Oil Co. said boarded the plane at Buffalo were Clayton G. Maxwell, 60, vice president of Frontier; Newton A. Bricka, 43, transportation manager; James A. Mahan Jr., 37, manager of marketing; James Whitaker, 52, assistant manager of Frontier's oil burner division.

Britain Turns Down Appeal From Soblen

LONDON (AP)—Britain today rejected Robert A. Soblen's final plea for clemency and ordered the fugitive spy deported to the United States "as soon as practicable."

His deportation probably will take place Thursday but the time has not been announced.

Soblen, who faces a life sentence in the United States for wartime spying for the Soviet Union, has been on the run since June.

He jumped $100,000 bail, fled to Tel Aviv, was expelled from Israel and landed in Britain July 1 after slashing himself while aboard the Israeli airliner that was flying him to New York.

Courts Act 4 Times

British courts four times rejected the 61-year-old psychiatrist's pleas that he should be allowed to remain here or at least be allowed to go to some other country of his choice. Communist Czechoslovakia offered him a visa, it was reported.

In a final effort to avoid deportation, Soblen's lawyers this week presented Home Secretary Henry Brooke with a 20-page memorandum arguing Soblen's case.

De Gaulle Hints At Possibility of Bonn-Paris Axis

BONN, Germany (AP)—French President Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer met today for a vital discussion of the economic and political future of Western Europe.

The importance of the talk was amplified Tuesday night when the French leader, in Germany on a six-day state visit, indirectly suggested formation of a Bonn-Paris political axis.

De Gaulle said the creation of a political union among the six Common Market nations was being delayed by "internal" and "outside" influences. He did not elaborate.

He added, however, that as far as France and West Germany are concerned, "there is every reason to organically form their mutual relations without waiting any longer since they (France and Germany) are in agreement on the principle and realization of this important task."

U. S. Expected to Make New Altitude Tests

HONOLULU (AP)—The United States apparently is planning to resume high-altitude nuclear tests over the Pacific by mid-September.

Repairs to a Thor booster launching pad, destroyed on Johnston Island last July 25 by a rocket failure, are almost complete, a Joint Task Force spokesman said Tuesday.

Showdown Averted

Firmness Pleases Berliners

BY DAVID M. NICHOL
Chicago Daily News Service

BERLIN—Berliners are heartened today by what they feel has been a change of heart in Washington.

Someone finally appreciated that the daily passage of Soviet armored cars through West Berlin's busy streets was not just a "technicality" but a Communist political offensive with sweeping long range aims.

Conveyed by British Once this essential point was understood, Washington and the British and French authorities acted quickly and with unusual resolution.

And the Soviets backed away for the time being at least from what threatened to become an ugly showdown.

About 7 last night the three heavy armored cars the Soviets have been using recently to transport their guards to the Soviet war memorial in West Berlin rolled over the Sandkrug bridge into Invalidenstrasse.

Then, conveyed by two British jeeps, they made an almost direct run to the memorial, a distance of about half a mile through freight yards and the open spaces of the Square of the Republic. About 40 minutes later they returned by the same route to the eastern sector of the city.

There was satisfaction and immense relief among the allied garrisons.

In the telling this scene presaid. It is difficult to convey the brooding, mounting tensions as hours passed without any hint of what the Soviets would do. For the first time since the building of the wall in August, 1961, the allies had given the Soviets an "ultimatum" with a time limit.

As of yesterday the Soviets were told they could no longer use the Friedrichstrasse crossing—Checkpoint Charlie—for their daily parade of armored cars but must use the shorter route via the Sandkrug bridge.

Early yesterday morning U.S. soldiers in battle gear were stationed at each of six crossings from East Berlin into the west.

Curbs on Military Flights Considered

Safeguards Against Military Patrol Planes Violating Red Territory Sought by Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is considering imposing new safeguards on military patrol flights near the Soviet Union in an attempt to reduce the risk of violating Soviet territory.

The latest in a long series of aerial border incidents flared into world headlines Tuesday when the Soviet Union charged that a U2 reconnaissance aircraft of the type that made sensational history in 1960 had trespassed Soviet territory in the Far East, north of Japan.

Kennedy administration leaders in a reply of unprecedented speed conceded that a U.S. plane—which State Department officials identified as a U2—might have flown unintentionally over Soviet-controlled territory last Thursday.

Speedy Concession

Officials said today they hoped this speedy concession of possible error would put a quick end to the latest U2 incident and kill any anti-American propaganda buildup Moscow might be planning.

The note to Moscow released here by the State Department only a few hours after Moscow's protest went beyond conceding the possibility of a mistake in navigation due to "severe winds during this nighttime flight."

It made two other points:

1. The policy of barrig U2 flights over Soviet territory which was first laid down by President Dwight D. Eisenhower after the 1960 incident and was later confirmed by President Kennedy is still in effect.
2. Precautionary measures intended to prevent accidental trespassing of Soviet air space are being reviewed.

Precautionary Measures

Informed officials said that precautionary measures could include a requirement that patrol flights made in bad weather under difficult flying conditions should follow courses well away from Soviet territory to allow for potential errors in navigation. Strict requirements to keep patrol planes under radar surveillance way fatalities for a similar non-so that the pilot could check his position accurately might also be laid down.

Qualified officials made clear that the United States has no intention of halting such flights last which are considered essential North measures of U.S. defense operations. Patrol planes equipped with radar and long-range photographic equipment and flying over international waters or the territory of friendly nations keep such check as they can on military conditions in and around Soviet border areas.

Flights of this kind have been made for a dozen years or more. Many incidents, including the shooting down of a number of U.S. planes by Soviet fighters there have occurred as a result. The United States has on many occasions accused the Soviet Union of sending its fighters over international waters to attack and destroy American aircraft.

Traffic Toll For Weekend Grows to 501

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic accidents over the long Labor Day weekend killed 501 persons, a record for the holiday and far ahead of the normal number of high-fatality way fatalities for a similar non-holiday period.

The final count for the 78-hour (three-day) holiday period showed that 501 persons lost their lives in motor vehicle accidents reported from 6 p.m. (local time) last Friday to midnight Monday. The previous record high of 461 was recorded in the 1951 Labor Day weekend.

Last year's Labor Day traffic toll was 386. The National Safety Council said the average number of traffic deaths for a late summer 78-hour non-holiday weekend is 330. An Associated Press survey is 330.

The accidents, 57 drownings and 97 deaths in boating were reported in addition to traffic deaths. The accidents, 57 drownings and 97 deaths in boating were reported in addition to traffic deaths.

Deaths in miscellaneous types of accidents, for an over-all total of 678. This also was a record, exceeding the previous total of 658, also set in 1951.

Twice-a-Year Checkups Needed One of Every 7 Women in Survey 'High Risk' for Cancer of the Womb

CHICAGO (AP)—A mass test of Ohio Women for cancer of the womb yielded a finding and a warning today.

The finding: one of every seven women so examined fell into a high-risk class.

The warning: such women should have more frequent checkups, preferably twice a year.

The study stemmed from an extraordinary long-term program, launched in 1947, to improve the high rate of salvage of uterine cure rate for cervical cancer in cancer patients when the disease is detected early and treated promptly. But it also stressed the difficulty of examining 57 million women over 30.

It showed that 14 per cent of all women examined more Gorski, research director of the than once were in the high-risk Cancer Cytology Research Fund, Toledo.

24 Years of Suffering, Imprisonment End for Archbishop Matulionis

Roman Catholic Bishop Dies Martyrs' Death in Soviet Jail

BY GEORGE WELLER
Chicago Daily News Service

NICOSIA, Cyprus — The Soviet secret service has closed its 44-year-old file on the last great Roman Catholic martyr of the three occupied Baltic countries: Archbishop Theophilus Matulionis of Kaunas, Lithuania's prewar capital.

In 24 years of Soviet prisons the sufferings of Matulionis equaled and at times outdid those of Yugoslavia's Aloysius Cardinal Stepinac, Czechoslovakia's Archbishop Josef Beran (still in prison) and Hungary's Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, a refugee in the American legation in Budapest.

Matulionis is less well known as a martyr only because of twin sale screens of Soviet censorship and Vatican discretion motivated by fears for his safety.

Stubborn Courage

Though revered by free Lithuanians, Latvians and Estonians, Matulionis was more than a Baltic nationalist confronting the Soviet colossus.

He loved the Russian people, spoke their language flawlessly and struggled for the spread of religious freedom and tolerance for the Roman Catholics in Russia as well as for the church's survival in the Baltic.

Matulionis lived through four generations of Soviet secret police and missed the fifth only by one week. He survived the attentions of Nicolai Lenin's CHEKA and OGPU, of Stalin's NKVD and of Khrushchev's KGB and MGB.

On Monday, shortly after news of Matulionis' death leaked westward, the Soviet police apparatus became the "ministry of law and order."

Epochal Meeting

Matulionis was the only survivor of an epochal meeting in Petrograd in the autumn of 1918, when half a dozen Russian priests pledged to keep Catholicism alive despite the Bolshevik atheism.

Nearly all died either in Siberia or in Soviet prisons.

As long as the Vatican's food missions supplemented American relief, Catholics were tolerated, provided they were foreign. But as soon as Lenin's "new economic policy" gave the farmers an inducement to produce food for sale foreign supplies were less needed. Foreign priests were expelled and repression started.

Matulionis set himself to the seemingly impossible task of spreading priesthood where no bishops were allowed to ordain them and contact with Rome was all but totally cut off.

Matulionis became the sponsor of the new priesthood in Russia, despite his Lithuanian origins. The Vatican's problem was how to consecrate Matulionis secretly as a bishop and give him the right of ordaining priests without turning to Page 9, Col. 1

Threats From NFO

Livestock Dealer May Carry Guns in Trucks

JUDA (AP)—A livestock dealer said Tuesday he may carry guns in his trucks because of threats of violence by men he said were members of the National Farm Organization (NFO).

Emil Treuthardt, 40, said that NFO members on two occasions had threatened his trucking operations. He said he would not arm his three drivers until an actual attempt is made to halt his deliveries to the Oscar Mayer Co. plant in Madison, where he makes three runs weekly.

"I'm going to be behind the wheel of the first truck out," he said. "We are not going to be armed tonight but I'm not saying we won't be Wednesday."

Two Threats

Treuthardt said he was threatened by two of his customers. He said one man later apologized but on hearing that the other had bought a gun, he consulted Dist. Atty. Joseph Viney.

Elmer Schlemme, a NFO official from Cascade, Iowa, said he assured Treuthardt that any threats against him were not made in the name of his organization.

Treuthardt said four NFO members were watching his stockyard Tuesday morning. Schlemme said this was a coincidence and only two men were supposed to count incoming livestock and not to interfere.

"Check Points"

The NFO began a nationwide withholding action Friday in an effort to force higher prices for meat.

The NFO has designated nine "check points" in Rock County and five in Winnebago County, Ill., to monitor the flow of livestock. Rock County NFO members said their check points found the action very successful. Major livestock exchanges reported receipts in Wisconsin Tuesday were normal or a little above normal.

CORNING, Iowa (AP)—Cheered by their success thus far, National Farmers Organization members sought today to increase their pressure to keep livestock and grain off the market in an attempt to boost farm prices.

Oren Lee Staley of Rea, Mo., the group's president, said reports from several major markets indicated that today's livestock receipts would be far below normal or for the second consecutive day. He said indications were that the ducted itself other than it should. St. Joseph, Mo., market was receiving virtually nothing, and that principal Midwest markets and early reports indicated Chicago smaller buying stations generally receipts might be even lower than were below advance estimates and well below offerings in the post-Labor Day holiday of last year.

He added that members are taking steps to tighten their holding to induce more farmers to keep their livestock on the farm or until processors agree to pay prices specified by the group.

There were reports of rock throwing, halting of traffic and interference with a livestock auction sale Tuesday in Lewistown, Mo., during the first major market test of the holding action.

Missouri Gov. John M. Dalton instructed authorities to deal firmly with the situation.

Lawrence Says Soviets Aim To Control All Of Hemisphere

Complaints About U2 are Smokescreen To Bluff America

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The Soviet government is raising a fuss about the flight of a U2 plane that accidentally approached a Russian island north of Japan, but the main purpose of the smokescreen of words is to bluff the United States into a policy of inaction in Central and South America.

For the Soviets see a big prize ahead. They hope to take over the countries of this hemisphere one by one, using Cuba as a military and political base from which to continue infiltration operations that will reach into every country on the North and South American continents.

More shiploads of war materials for the use of so-called "technicians" — who are really professional trainers of military forces — are currently on the way to Cuba, according to Sen. Kenneth Keating of New York, Republican, who has just announced in a speech to the Senate that Communist-bloc military men in Cuba already number nearly 5,000. The White House says the number is approximately 3,500.

"Defensive" Buildup

For the time being, President Kennedy chooses to regard the buildup as defensive on the part of Cuba. If it should develop into an offensive operation, the President declares that the United States will take action against the flagrant violation of the Monroe Doctrine and that other Latin-American countries will participate.

This warning comes because the doctrine is not only the policy of the United States but also of the Organization of American States. It bars any nation in any other hemisphere from establishing a military foothold in any country in this hemisphere. A statement approved by President Eisenhower and issued by the U. S. Department of State on July 14, 1960, said:

"In the first place, the principles of the Monroe Doctrine are as valid today as they were in 1823 when the doctrine was proclaimed. Furthermore, the Monroe Doctrine's purpose of preventing any extension to this hemisphere of a despotic political system contrary to the independent status of the American states is supported by the inter-American security system through the Organization of American States.

Rio Treaty

"Specifically the OAS charter and the Rio Treaty (September 2, 1947) provides the means for common action to protect the hemisphere against the interventionist and aggressive designs of international Communism."

Later — on August 24, 1960 — President Eisenhower said:

"The Monroe Doctrine has by no means been supplanted — it has been merely extended."

President Kennedy reaffirmed the position taken by preceding administrations relative to the Monroe Doctrine when, after the failure of Cuban exiles to invade Cuba in April 1961, he said:

"Let the record show that our restraint is not inexhaustible. Should it ever appear that the inter-American doctrine of non-interference merely conceals or excuses a policy of non-action — if the nations of this hemisphere should fail to meet their commitments against outside Communist penetration — then I want it clearly understood that this government will not hesitate in meeting its primary obligations which are to the security of our own nation."

Point of Decision

Now the situation has reached a point of decision. Shall the governments of Central and South American countries be gradually infiltrated and taken over by the Soviets? The Communist apparatus and agents already have begun to infiltrate every country, from Mexico down to the tip end of South America. If the organization of American States does nothing and if the United States is acquiescent, the Communist foothold in Latin America will be strengthened and the Monroe Doctrine will be dead for all time. It has been suggested that, if the United States takes forceful action in Cuba, this will cause the Soviets to raise questions about western military bases in various parts of Europe. But this, too, would be merely a smokescreen, because Moscow knows that not a single group of military advisers or technicians from the West is today based in any of the Communist-bloc countries. There is no parallel, therefore, and the issue remains whether the aggression via Cuba and the Soviet threat to Central and South American countries shall be ignored or some military and economic action shall be taken to nip

It is the bad news before the build-up becomes a real menace to the security of the United States.

Training Cubans

For in Cuba — just 90 miles from Florida — the Soviets have established their military advisers "to train Cuban servicemen," as the official Moscow communiqué describes it.

In accordance with precedent and custom, Mr. Kennedy may decide to ask Congress for a joint resolution authorizing him to take whatever military steps are deemed necessary to uphold the Monroe Doctrine. Since the present session of Congress may adjourn

Medicare in the Senate Race

Gov. Nelson, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator, has had much to say about Sen. Alexander Wiley's vote against the King-Anderson Bill to provide hospital care for persons over 65. The governor has told a rather complicated story intended to make it appear that Sen. Wiley was solely responsible for the defeat of this measure.

Sen. Wiley now has replied to that charge. Instead of arguing about the influence of his particular vote, the senator has denounced the bill as undeserving of his support. The statement, which is a good one, makes these points:

1. The first $90 of hospital bills would have to be paid by the patient.
 2. There was no provision for the payment of doctors' bills.
 3. It didn't even pay for medicine outside the hospital. Nor did it cover most of the out-patient care.
 4. Neither was there any direct benefit for those under 65 although all workers would pay taxes for 20 to 40 years.
- Sen. Wiley then points out that the Kerr-Mills law, now on the statute book, provides for federal grants of 50 to 80 per cent to states to help furnish comprehensive medical assistance not only for aged individuals who are recipients of old age assistance, but also for those who are not if their means are insufficient to meet the cost of medical expense. The senator says, "24 states at present have Kerr-Mills programs in operation. Wisconsin is not one of them."

Sen. Wiley's statement is pointed. Wisconsin is not getting benefits under the Kerr-Mills Bill, and the reason is largely because Gov. Nelson did not supply the necessary leadership to get any action on state legislation necessary to make the bill operative in Wisconsin. Gov. Nelson and many others who were staunch supporters of the King-Anderson Bill apparently did not want to put the Kerr-Mills Bill into operation fearing that to do so would show that there was no necessity for the bill which would put Medicare under a Social Security financing program.

It is quite probable that if Gov. Nelson had made half as much effort to get Kerr-Mills legislation for Wisconsin as he now is making to place the responsibility for the failure of the King-Anderson Bill, Wisconsin would have that legislation and many needy persons would be benefiting from it.

A recent Associated Press dispatch reports that Massachusetts received a "$52 million jackpot, with more to come, since it went into the federal-state plan of Medicare for the aged two years ago."

That means that Massachusetts adopted legislation to make the Kerr-Mills Bill effective there.

The Kerr-Mills program paid out a total of $166 million in federal funds the first two years of existence up to March this year. New York got $79 million of the total, Massachusetts $52 million and Michigan $18,400,000. California received only $4 million but its program is new and shortly may be greatly expanded. Assemblyman Jerome Quinn of Green Bay has a bill pending in the legislature which seeks similar benefits for Wisconsin people. Thomas J. Lucas, Sr., director of public assistance for the Wisconsin Welfare Department, estimated the total cost of the program for Wisconsin at $10,000,000. The state would be required to pay 46.9 per cent of the total or $4,690,000. If those who are now showing so much concern for the aged had pushed a little bit for this legislation many Wisconsin residents, including some on public welfare and others with small incomes who are making their own way, could have been receiving benefits from it.

The simple fact is that many needy Wisconsin residents over 65 years of age have been deprived of the benefits of the Kerr-Mills Bill worth $5,310,000 per year in federal aid because the state did not provide the leadership necessary to obtain it.

The State's Paper Industry

If any convincing were needed, the most recent figures on employment in Wisconsin's pulp and paper industry prove once again the impact which paper manufacture and allied business and industry has on the state's economy. A survey by the Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service shows that 42,671 persons are employed at the present time. This is an all-time record and, also significantly, the total is 1,000 more than a year ago, which can mean only that the industry is continuing to expand.

Much of this expansion has been at mills in the Fox River Valley, which has for many years been the hub of paper-making in Wisconsin. The recent employment survey does not give employment figures for individual areas of the state. But it is a fact that a majority of the 31,888 in Wisconsin's 49 pulp, paper and paperboard mills, 9,883 in paper and paperboard converting installations, and 900 in merchant or distributing operations work, raise their families and spend their money in this area. The paper industry thus merits considerable credit for aiding the progress which the Fox Valley has shown over the years.

As pointed out by George Mackin, general chairman of the Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service and a vice president of Green Bay Packaging Inc., the pulp and paper firm employment figures do not include many thousands of others who derive income from forest-oriented industries and those which manufacture papermaking machinery. All of these, too, add to the strength of the state's economy, which, in the final analysis, is the combination of firms and people working together for welfare of individuals.

The paper industry in this state has shown its belief in the future by large capital outlays in recent years for new equipment and modernization of existing equipment. This, in turn, should comfort Wisconsin residents, especially those in the Fox Valley, because it means that this state will likely continue to be the top paper-producing state in the nation, with its continued high employment and payrolls. The paper industry is to be commended for its faith in the future which is intimately connected with its faith in hard-working employees and their know-how in producing many varieties of paper products which are among the best in the world in quality.

People and Public Services

Men and women in the governmental services sometimes have related to us their doubts that the average citizen is much concerned about their work or its consequences, except as it may be reflected in tax liability. But the officers of the state division of corrections were pleasantly astonished recently by the public response to their invitation to the public to inspect one of the most important of the state government's services, a correction institution for adult male prisoners.

It may be that there is inherently more public curiosity about a prison, and especially a new one embodying advanced methods of confinement and training, than in those governmental functions largely executed from desks in big office-buildings. Yet there was a remarkable outpouring of visitors recently at the new medium security prison being completed at Fox Lake. Warden John Gagnon, the former Green Bay resident who was promoted to the command of the new facility, inserted a small notice in the neighborhood weekly newspapers, and attracted a throng of Sunday afternoon visitors estimated at 7,000. He reported that the crowd would have been larger, except that the roads to the prison were so clogged that many motorists drove on.

This is a welcome experience for Mr. Sanger Powers and his important state division of corrections, but it should also contain a hint for our policymakers in the legislature and elsewhere.

The state has spent generously for new institution construction of all kinds during the last 10 years or more, but there has been a tendency to withhold money for the prison system that is cheerfully expended in other aspects of the welfare program and in higher education. The legislature's task in distributing a limited amount of resources is obviously difficult. There is a tendency to put the money where the pressure is greatest, or where the need appears to be most exigent, or where the political returns are most likely. There are no prison alumni societies. Families of men incarcerated do not associate themselves into lobbies. The prison program, on the whole, has less public awareness than any of the other state services that involve the care or training of large numbers of our people. The result has been a down-grading of the prison program in the political decision making quarters.

Yet the prison program will press upon us for more attention, as the general population figures and the corollary figures on corrections institution admissions show so clearly. The new prison at Fox Lake is the first major institution for men to be built in this century. But it is reasonably certain that yet more space will be needed in the corrections program, and it is encouraging to find a solid public interest in the question.

South Africa Has Alcoholism Problem

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Although alcoholism annually costs South Africa $140 million in lost man hours and accidents, the country is spending "practically nothing" on its study and cure, complains A. J. Pienaar, secretary of the National Council on Alcoholism. He said his society believes that alcoholism claims more victims in South Africa than cancer, polio and tuberculosis combined and "it has a far greater disrupting effect on the lives of sufferers than probably any other illness."

Paper Industry Must Seek New Applications for Its Products

From Pulp and Paper Magazine

There is a great deal of serious thought being given to the question of what the pulp and paper industry position should be—in order to meet successfully growing competition from plastics, electronics, aluminum, and other industries.

Historically this has been a supply industry. It has been almost passive in its approach to its markets. Newspapers needed so much newsprint book publishers needed so much book paper; there was a calculable demand for wrapping paper and writing paper.

But times have changed. This industry is beginning to recognize the need for creating its markets aggressively. This is behind the steps taken by paper industries to produce new plastics-paper combinations and to invade all areas of packaging.

By far the biggest industry today is the defense industry and the greatest expenditure is in nuclear and space developments. When important industrial "new worlds" such as these are being opened up, it behooves the paper industry to get "on the ball" and find out where it can play a part.

This kind of imaginative thinking is revealed in a recent American Cyanamid Co. advertisement in The New Yorker. It was headed "To Mars. . . But What About the Laundry?" and said, in part:

"Picture a Mars-bound astronaut jockeying through space at 25,000 miles per hour. All systems are functioning perfectly. The spaceship's cabin is small but comfortable. He has plenty of food and water for his 300-day journey. He has taped music and reading material to keep his mind occupied.

"But how in the world does he do his laundry?"

"The answer, of course, is . . . he doesn't. Washing clothes in outer space would require prohibitive amounts of water and energy.

"Disposable clothing is the only solution. Warm, light clothing that can be jettisoned.

"And of all the fibers and fabrics known to modern man, one that is being seriously considered for the job is paper. Good old plentiful, inexpensive paper.

"Until comparatively recently, paper would never have been in the running for a role like this. Paper was to write things on. And to wrap things in. And that was it.

"But, today, paper has undergone a startling transformation. You can redecorate a room with wallpaper that not only pastes it self, but kills ticks and repels dirt, too. You can brighten your kitchen with vinyl coated paper flooring. Manufacturers are even experimenting with a paper bathing suit."

The advertisement went on to tell some history — how wet strength was put into paper.

It is this urgent need for ag-

Jewett's Boys Leave for Camp

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Sept. 6, 1862

It having been announced that Capt. Jewett's company would leave town on Monday, for camp at Oshkosh, at an early hour people were active.

Just before the cars came, Capt. Jewett formed his men into double file and marched to the cars, accompanied by men, women and children. Arriving at the depot, the men were formed in line and received the hearty "good speed," cheering words of encouragement were exchanged, while warmly grasped hands were shaken and fervent good-byes were given and received in true feelings of friendship.

Agonized hearts were there, too; the wife giving up her husband, the mother her son, the tender-hearted sister her brother. The tear bedewed cheeks of many such betokened the inward depth of feeling.

As the cars moved off with its precious freight of human cargo, the crowd gave the boys three hearty good cheers, which were heartily responded to by the company.

Arriving at Neenah, another fine looking company, with Capt. Nelson in charge, came on board swelling our numbers another hundred. Cheer upon cheer arose from the people as the cars again started.

One of us accompanied the boys to camp. As our men marched through the streets of Oshkosh there seemed to be a spontaneous, universal sentiment of admiration of the splendid appearance of the company, their manly bearing.

On reaching the camp ground, about a half mile from town, Col. Sweet gallantly received the company with a neat little speech. The boys were then marched to their barracks and commenced in earnest the soldier's life.

We believe the regiment has the very best of field officers, who will do everything in their power to render the men comfortable.

We learn from Capt. Jewett that they expect to be ordered off soon, probably some time next week. Rumor says they will be sent to Benton Barracks, St. Louis. (According to the Crescent for Sept. 12, the 21st

Sees Few Changes in State Representatives

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The outlook is for little change in the Wisconsin House of Representatives lineup in the election this fall, although it has become apparent that the Democrats are less cheerful about the outlook than are the Republicans.

Perhaps the most combative situation, that will show more investment of energy and money than in any other part of the state this fall, is that in the second congressional district, which includes the capital city of Madison.

Second term Democratic Rep. Robert Kastemeier is obviously prepared for a stiff battle, and he is likely to get it from Ivan Kindschi, an energetic and aggressive and ambitious young Republican who has some seasoning as a former candidate for the legislature and a one-time aspirant for a Republican nomination for state treasurer.

The rivalry will be more than ordinarily interesting, moreover, because it is likely to reach beyond the confines of the district for aid to both candidates, and because it will draw the issue lines more clearly than in many other congressional bouts. Kastemeier is a militant, deliberate, uncompromising liberal who has shown considerable courage in voting his liberal convictions even when it has required him to stand almost alone.

Kindschi is a convinced, angressive action which was in Champion Papers President Karl R. Bendelsen's mind when he recently proposed the creation of an Applications Research Center for this industry—dedicated to a frontal assault on the major economic problems of the industry.

This is what Vice President Edward McSweeney of Perkins Goodwin Co. was thinking about when he addressed the recent Coating Conference in Cincinnati and said, "We sit on the dynamite of technological change."

Time is running short. This industry needs to move rapidly in this direction in order to keep up with its competitors.

It must change from its historical status of being simply a supply industry and become an application industry in the fullest sense of that word. It must get there first with the most and the best.

ious conservative, which means that the issues as such will be drawn in this big district with more clarity than in most other congressional contests in the state. The outcome is probably a toss-up.

THE OTHERS

In the six districts now held by Republicans, there is no special cause for the party to worry, as its tacticians now see it.

The effort will be to pick up an additional seat or two, which is why Kastemeier can expect an exceptional resistance to his reelection candidacy in his own haliwick. Normally Democrats would have reason to hope that they could recapture the first district, including the southern-most counties extending westward from Kenosha. But the primary candidate list has shown no one outstanding aspirant, which leads the Republicans to believe, and the Democrats to fear, that Republican Rep. Henry C. Schadeberg of Burlington, a close winner in 1960, can be re-elected.

Democratic Rep. Lester Johnson of the Ninth district was plainly worried about his prospects when it seemed likely that his district would be reshuffled through reapportionment, but that threat now has passed and he is generally accounted the favorite to be reelected as a consequence. What may baffle him two years hence when the 1963 legislature will probably be forced to meet the reapportionment question, is doubtless nagging him privately.

SAFE SEATS

The electoral histories of their districts and their own successes in the past force the conclusion that Democrats Henry Reuss and Clement Zablocki of Milwaukee and Republicans John W. Byrnes of Green Bay, William K. Van Pelt of Fond du Lac, Melvin R. Laird of Marshfield, Vernon W. Thomson of Richland Center and Alvin E. O'Konski of Mercer are favorites in their reelection bids.

It is a provocative footnote to the season, however, that Rep. O'Konski, one of the shrewdest and most effective stumpers in contemporary Wisconsin politics, not only faces a more than ordinarily threatening Democratic rival in November, but has in addition the annoyance of a challenger for the Republican nomination. His Republican foe is Robert Slack, a young Superior merchant. The Democratic nominee will be Lewis Hanson of Mellon, a man of substance and reputation who has made an impression in Democratic state organization affairs lately.

Don't Use Red Arms to Attack, Castro Told

30 vessels carrying communications gear, weapons, economic aid and technicians have been arriving in Cuba in a massive wave of Soviet assistance which began late in July.

Kennedy said further information in the last four days establishes that the Russian shipments include:

1. Antiaircraft defense missiles, similar to early models of the American Nike, having a slant range of 25 miles. (The Soviets have supplied similar surface-to-air missiles in past aid to Iraq and Indonesia.)
2. Several torpedo boats carrying ship-to-ship guided missiles having a 15-mile range.
3. 3,500 Red Aechicians
4. Approximately 3,500 "Soviet military technicians" — an increase above previous official U.S. estimates of the number of military specialists arriving from the bloc.

At the same time, Kennedy's statement said the number of Soviet technicians is consistent with the number needed to set up the Russian equipment and train the Cubans how to use it.

The President provided these details:

There is no evidence of any organized combat force in Cubaive hands, or under Soviet direction military bases provided to Russia.

Vintage Armament

'New' Cuban Weapons Red 'Hand-Me-Downs'

BY ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fidel ago and since has been succeeded Castro's big friend Nikita Khrush-Ajax. It went into use a decade chey apparently is giving Cuba by the longer range, nuclear-tip-some hand-me-down defensive ped Nike Hercules.

The antiaircraft missiles which President Kennedy says the Soviet Union has shipped into Cuba apparently are of a vintage like those the United States started using almost 10 years ago and since has discarded.

The Soviet motor torpedo boats which Kennedy says are in Cuban waters are not believed to be the newest of the big fleet of Soviet patrol craft, although they may have been fitted out with modified surface target missiles.

Similar to Nike Kennedy said in a statement Tuesday night that the Soviets have provided the Cuban government with a number of antiaircraft missiles "with slant range of 25 miles, which are similar to early models of our Nike."

This could be reference to a Soviet weapon which the United States designates as the T6 surface-to-air missile. That missile closely parallels in design and operation the first of the U.S. T6 missiles.

Record Shattering Lows Hit State

Abnormally cold weather plunged temperatures to record and near-record levels for this date throughout Wisconsin early today. The Superior area, with a near-freezing low of 34 degrees, had the coldest Sept. 5 on record. The previous low was 38 in 1885. Madison's 36 was the lowest and Joseph A. Collins, 64, manager of the oil burner division.

Other Victims

An Ashland Oil Co. spokesman said four men from another subsidiary, Allied Oil of Cleveland, also were aboard. They were identified as Jay P. Alexander, 51, executive assistant to the president, Allied Oil; Robert Wulff, 37, manager of retail fuel oil sales; Wayne T. Wiggins, 37, sales manager, and W. H. Parr, fuel oil sales representative for Allied at Ashtabula, Ohio.

From the home company, there was John W. Drennan, administrative assistant for marketing.

An Ashland accountant, James Goff, 34, was believed also to have been in the group.

Chief pilot Blaine Berkstresser was aboard, and copilot Ronald Roberts of Ashland also was scheduled to make the trip.

Describes Tragedy First on the scene of the crash 18 miles from this northeastern Ohio city was Richard McKenzie, who lives nearby. He said he heard a whistling or screaming noise, somewhat like the noise of a jet plane. He saw the red lights of the plane moving in a spinning pattern, then saw a tremendous crash. Flames shot more than 50 feet above the wreckage, he said. William Weiner of Youngstown, who was fishing on Lake Milton one mile to the east, estimated the plane's lights were at 400 feet altitude when he heard what sounded like engine trouble.

"It coughed and sputtered, then faded out," he said. Some of the wreckage was thrown onto nearby power lines 50 or 60 feet high, causing a short circuit that left home in a wide area without power for several minutes.

The worst industrial airplane accident on record was Jan. 10, 1954, near Shreveport, La., when 12 persons died.

Three years ago an industrial airplane crash near Marion, Ohio, killed 10 persons.

Suffering of Bishop Ends in Russian Prison letting the Soviet police know he possessed it.

Lenin's CHEKA was outwitted by a young Italian bishop named Eugenio Pacelli, later Pope Pius XII, who secretly consecrated a French priest in Berlin as a bishop.

The Frenchman got a Soviet visa and went to Leningrad where he consecrated Matulionis secretly, enabling him to ordain priests.

When the Soviets became aware in 1923 what was going on in Leningrad, they arrested Matulionis but didn't discover he was a bishop. Three years later when he was exchanged for several Lithuanian communists Matulionis was met at Soviet border by a welcoming party of Lithuanians, who, before the astonished eyes of the Russians, greeted him as bishop.

During both the Nazi and Soviet invasions of World War II, Matulionis had numerous chances to flee westward. Instead he chose to remain and fight the Soviets on the strength of the "religious freedom" pledged in Soviet constitution.

An able legalist as well as a fiery polemicist, Matulionis clung to this shred of legality to keep his priests in non-clerical clothes active in rural Lithuania.

He carefully avoided dooming the church by linking it officially with the Lithuanian guerrillas who were fighting hopelessly without western help in the woods and icy marshes.

When Soviets jailed and then released him, Matulionis struck once more by secretly consecrating another Lithuanian bishop, Invinis. The new bishop was stripped of his powers and Matulionis was confined under house arrest.

Matulionis was never allowed to see any foreigners. But word of his ebbing strength reached Pope John XXIII through Moscow last winter and last February Matulionis was consecrated in absentia as an archbishop.

Of the 82 years of his priesthood, Matulionis spent four years under Nazism and 28 years under Communism, 24 of them in Soviet jails. His nearest rival for the length of time spent by a bishop in Communist jails is Prague's Archbishop Beran, who has been confined for 14 years.

ferent direction and then fire a small liquid fuel rocket in its tail. This sent Mariner 2 streaking toward Venus at a speed of 6,887 miles per hour.

Success Continues
"Everything worked just as designed," the Mariner project manager Jack James, exultantly told a news conference.

Continued success for Mariner 2 seemed assured by two events that took place shortly after the 29-second firing of the 37 pound rocket.

First, the spacecraft's solar panels, which convert sunlight into electricity for Mariner 2's radios and scientific instruments, were trained once again on the sun. They lost it when the space vehicle's direction was changed to a course closer to Venus.

Second, the high-power antenna at the base of the spacecraft, which was moved out of the way of the course-changing rocket's exhaust, was swung back and beamed again at earth.

A spokesman for the laboratory said scientists plan to spend the next few days tracking Mariner 2 and checking its instruments. No major announcements are expected until they attempt to turn on several experiments as the spacecraft nears Venus.

Showdown With Reds Averted in West Berlin

American sector. In the weird and wonderful language of current official pronouncements here, the soldiers were to check "the degree of compliance" by the Soviets.

The Soviets have been making their daily crossings about 1 p.m. One p.m. came and went while the largest crowd of correspondents in Checkpoint Charlie's history waited.

In midafternoon came the shocking news that Communist guards had shot down their 42nd known victim at the wall. A man of about 50 in working clothes had scrambled to the top of the wall with its broken glass and tangled barbed wire where the wall borders an East Berlin cemetery.

Reds Remove Injured Man

The man was shot through the head by Communist guards. His feet still caught in the wire, he fell back into the cemetery, hanging head down. His bullet-pierced cap reached freedom. It fell on the Western side of the wall in Bernauer Strasse.

The Checkpoint Charlie ambulance, manned this month by the French, already had started in the direction of the shooting when Communist guards, this time with Red Cross arm bands, removed their newest human target. The ambulance was recalled before it tried to enter East Berlin.

It was in this sullen atmosphere that the Soviets finally "complied."

A brief official Soviet statement today ignores the American role. It includes a message directed to the British and saying that the Soviet commander in East Germany, Gen. Ivan Yakubovsky, had discussed the British "suggestions" with the East German authorities and had "raised no objection" to the changed route.

Next Move Awaited
No one believes for a moment that this is the end of the Soviet attempt to establish themselves as a fourth "occupying power" in the Western sectors of the city. The $64 question today is what will the Soviets do next?

In one symbolic "warning" Soviet fighters within the space of half an hour yesterday flew close to commercial airliners of each the three companies, American, British and French, that use the three air corridors from West Germany to the divided city.

West for this inhuman delay.

Last night the allies made their customary "strong protest" to the Soviet officer who still sits in the Berlin Air Safety Center. For how much longer? No one knows.

Communist control of passenger traffic in the air lanes to and from Berlin is very near the top of current Soviet objectives in the city. If this control could be imposed there would no longer be any reason for refugees from Communist rule to try to reach West Berlin, and the Communists, in a gracious gesture, could open the wall, or perhaps remove it altogether.

Wall Rebukes Reds

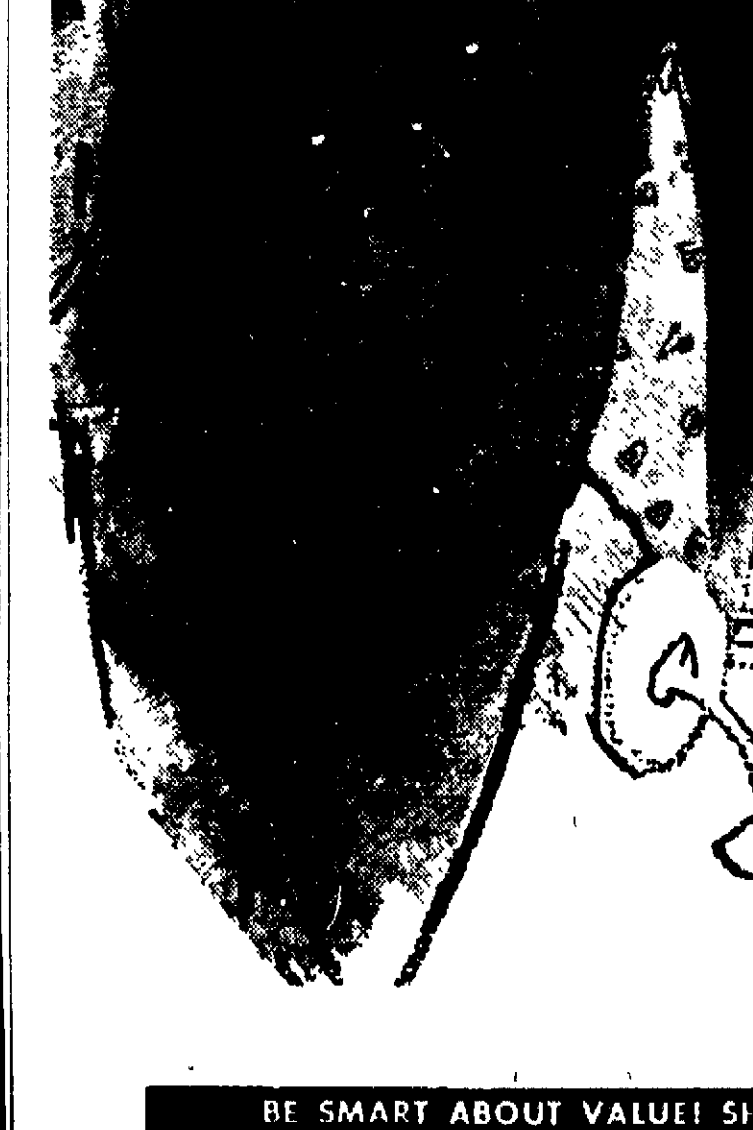

As it now stands, the wall is one of the worst advertisements ever devised for the Soviet bloc. Far from diminishing tensions in the city, it has increased them enormously as demonstrating Berliners showed so clearly two weeks ago.

While the possibility of flight via West Berlin remains, no amount of brutality by the Communist guards is enough to suppress these desires.

Early this morning two youths in their 20s made it to freedom by crashing a heavy truck through the barbed wire on the city's southern boundary with the surrounding Communist ruled region, then swimming a canal under Communist fire.

The Communists announced in the meantime that wounded refugees in the future will be given medical aid by the Communists, and only by the Communists, providing the West does not interfere. It was a twisted and reluctant admission of the immense damage done to the Communist cause by the shooting of Peter Fechter three weeks ago.

Fechter lay mortally wounded for nearly an hour and died before the East German guards made any move to help him. They have since tried to blame the West for this inhuman delay.

Problems Face Women's Status Growth in Uganda

BY JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Bouncy little Barbara Saben, mayor of Uganda's capital, Kampala, recalls a memo she saw in 1947.

"It was from a backward part of the country," she says, "urging that women should not be tethered like goats in the sun."

From this unenviable status women in Uganda are moving steadily forward, Mrs. Saben said the other day, but they still have problems — recognition, education, bringing up children.

She was in this country to collect her two sons, Hugh, graduating from McGill University in Toronto with a bachelor of science degree, and Timothy, a journalism major at the University of Oregon.

ment in 1935 when she fell in love in Kenya and married.

The Sabens have lived in Uganda 22 years, in a stone house on a hill overlooking Lake Victoria. Her husband is in the soft drink business, and she helps him with his work in addition to putting in a full day in her own office in town hall.

Formerly one of the few women on Uganda's Legislative Council, she's now the first elected mayor of Kampala (they used to be appointed) and consequently a member of the nonpolitical, predominantly African City Council. They have no racial disputes, she says. Their chief difficulty is financing their improvement program.

"Kampala (population 50,000, serving an area of 150,000) is a very modern city," she says, "and compares jolly well with American towns."

Women Do Farm Work

She also talked about farming. In the rural areas seven-tenths of the agricultural work is done by women.

"Unless you get women to appreciate better agricultural methods you haven't achieved anything at all. A woman sitting at home on a shamba (a small peasant holding) may be told by a man what to do, but like women the world over, as soon as he turns his back she'll go back to doing the way she wants to."

Farm institutes don't take women, but the Young Women's Christian Association in which she's been active for years, is pioneering an agricultural extension program and carrying the courses to women in the villages.

It also is important to teach the women how to get better nutrition from what they grow, she believes. "They don't know how to feed a child," she says.

But the women are keen to learn, she says, and through all classes is sweeping the urge for recognition of their rights. Women want to play a part in the life of their country, which is going into independence this fall.

"But they say, you can't progress unless you carry the men with you. You can advance only in conjunction with men. They're jolly wise."

What Do Doctors Do When They Suffer HEADACHE PAIN?

New York, N.Y.—Most doctors live under constant nervous tension, pressure and mental strain. It's not surprising they, too, often suffer from miserable headaches. But now—it can be revealed what doctors, themselves, take to relieve headache pain.

A survey shows many doctors take the fast, pain-relieving ingredients in Anacin®. In fact, three out of four doctors recommend this same type of relief to their patients.

Anacin Tablets are stronger yet safer. They give fast, long-lasting and—more complete relief from tense, nervous headaches than aspirin or aspirin with buffering. You see, mere aspirin or buffered aspirin contains only one pain reliever. But Anacin is different. Anacin is like a doctor's prescription. That is, a combination of medically proven ingredients recognized for their effectiveness by the highest medical authorities. Anacin gives extra medication that not only relieves pain fast, but also its nervous tension, pressure and depression.

After taking Anacin—pain goes in minutes! The sufferer 'feels great' again.

Despite their strength and effectiveness—Anacin Tablets contain no narcotics, do not form a habit or leave one depressed. Anacin may be taken as directed as often as needed without upsetting or irritating the stomach.

See if the extra medication in Anacin doesn't work better for you. Change to Anacin for fast, long-lasting, more complete pain-relief.

be their fellow citizen, but I wouldn't want them as my partner in a bridge game. I want a partner who makes trouble.

The difference is clear in this sort of hand. I held the East cards and a good citizen held the West cards. He called himself my partner.

West opened the queen of clubs and continued the suit until South ruffed. Declarer led a diamond to dummy's queen and returned a low trump from dummy. I played the deuce, South tried a finesse with the queen of spades, and the good citizen dropped the three of spades.

If you're made of the right stuff you should be harrumphing and snorting at this feeble play. If you haven't seen West's mistake, don't admit it to anybody. You wouldn't want to be called a good citizen.

No Choice
South was now missing the K-10-9 of spades and had no choice. His only chance to avoid the loss of a trump trick was to lead out the ace of spades and hope that the king would drop.

The king did drop, and South made the game and rubber.

A good troublemaker in the West seat would drop the nine of spades when South wins a finesse with the queen. This creates the impression that West started with the doubleton 10-9 of spades.

If South believes this, he will get to dummy with a diamond and lead the jack of spades in the hope of picking up the king and the ten at the same time. And if South does this he will lose a trump trick to West's guarded ten.

If you want to be a good partner you mustn't just sit there and follow suit. Make trouble!

Daily Question
Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S-K-2; H-K-10-7-6; D-8-7-6-4; C-A-9-8. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention. This asks partner to show a major suit if he can. If partner bids two hearts, you will raise to four; otherwise you will bid 3 NT.

Your Problems

Curb-Sitter Tires of Treatment Of Too-Late, Too-Often Friend

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a close friend who has never been on time since I've known her. She's always at least 15 minutes late. I have waited for her as long as an hour.

The woman is never without an excuse — and I've heard them all. She usually starts with, "Everything happens to me."

Last week I sat parked in front of her home for 30 minutes, waiting to give her a lift. Then, "Prompt Polly" (that's me) had to walk into a meeting 25 minutes late. My face was crimson.

She would be shocked if anyone were to suggest that she is selfish or inconsiderate. In fact, in most respects, she's generous to a fault. What, if anything, can be done about a person like this? — Patience Wearing Thin

Dear Thin: Anyone who allows himself to be imposed on time after time is a shnook, in my book.

If you honestly resent this woman's selfishness (find a better word and I'll buy it) let her know you are through waiting for her.

The next time you agree to give her a lift instruct her to be out in front of her home — at the curb. Make it plain if she's not in front you'll go right on. Phone before you leave home and remind her of the arrangement.

When she discovers you won't wait she'll be on time.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I cannot agree. Can you help? We have three lovely children. The oldest is a girl 15, then a boy 13, and another boy, 9. These children are well-behaved and completely trustworthy.

My husband and I have a chance to take a three-week vacation with another couple. We may never again get an opportunity to see the country at such a bargain rate.

Mother phoned last night to say Dad isn't well and she is unable to stay with our children as planned. My husband says the children can manage without her and we don't need anyone here.

I would be uneasy leaving them alone, but he claims I am over-protective and the experience of being on their own would be good for them. What do you say? — Not Sure

Dear Unsure: I say don't do it.

If something happened in your absence you would never forgive yourself.

Strange how people wouldn't dream of leaving their jewelry or furs unguarded, yet they will take foolish chances with their children who are far more precious.

Get another adult to come in and stay with your children or cancel your trip.

DEAR ANN: That letter from "Ready to Scram" really jarred loose some nightmarish memories for me. Perhaps my letter will save other divorced women with children from making a horrible mistake. It's too late for me. I've already made it.

I'll wager nine out of 10 so-called pushed-around step-dads played up to the woman's children as part of the act to get her to say yes. Even the dumbest yosh knows the way to a mother's heart is through her children. These clever men butter up the kids and make them believe life is going to be one great big picnic together. Then, as soon as the knot is tied — wham — the fault-finding, criticizing, ordering around, and slapping begins.

My advice to a widow or divorcee with children is this: A man who genuinely likes children doesn't overdo it. He behaves in a normal, natural way — sometimes he may even chastise the child. Beware when he's too fawning. And for heaven's sake, listen to what people tell you — especially people who have known the character for years. A man's reputation is the key to what he really is. — Burned But Good

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

PET DOCTOR

Q. At what age should kittens be given away? Susan O'Donoghue, Bay Village, Ohio.

A. It always amazes me that kittens barely able to open their eyes can survive. Unless the mother has run out of milk or the kittens are able to eat well alone, they should be at least four weeks old before being taken away. If the kittens are puny this could be stretched to six weeks, but they should be separated. When they are two weeks old you should teach them to lap milk and eat a little hamburger and white fish. Don't separate them until they can eat well for themselves.

Boots Step Up Fall Shoe Fashion Pace

Boots — brilliant and beautiful — have taken over as the leading design in fall footwear. No longer relegated to foul weather wear, boot fashions move around town for afternoon and evening wear.

Weather resistant mock leathers and furs with the pretense of giraffe, leopard, zebra, tiger, alligator or lizard add a touch of high style to an afternoon ensemble. Leather boots also match leather trimmed fall tweed suits and coats.

High heeled boots in gold and silver are styled for theater or cocktail wear. For evening, brocade and velvet boots will complement evening dress.

Soft leathers, such as natural buckskin, with contrasting leather trim are made up in boots for sportswear.

In ankle, mid-calf or knee high styles, boots have taken a dramatic step into fashion this fall.

Boots Go Out in any weather. Above, unborne calf with the pretension of giraffe adds a dramatic note to afternoon attire. The matching totebag has a zippered side compartment and opens at the top.

The Priceless look of gold shot with silver creates a fashion treasure for evening wear. The high heeled boots are perfect for theater, dining out and even for cocktail parties.

Distaff Side Often Helps To Pick Car

In the average U.S. family it's Father — the "lord and master of the house" — who decides what car the family is going to buy.

However, Father's decision is often made on the basis of what Mother wants.

While men are frequently impressed by a car's horsepower, road-handling qualities and "go," women are more likely to be interested in appearance, safety and comfort. Friend Husband will take these preferences into account, whether he realizes it consciously or not, when he visits the auto showroom.

Not too particular about the make of car the family is going to buy as long as it has the features and conveniences that appeal to them.

They are more realistic and "hard-boiled" than most men when it comes to selecting a dealer. Women are experienced shoppers, they like to buy from an establishment where they can be sure of good service. In the case of automobile dealers, women tend to rate service as the most important single reason for preferring one dealer to another, and wise and experienced husbands are likely to respect their wives' opinion. The power of the distaff side in influencing car-buying decisions has increased in direct ratio to the increase in the number of women drivers. In 1950 there were 15 million licensed women drivers in the United States; today there are more than 36 million.

SEAMS TO ME Questions On Sewing

By Patricia Scott

A good way to check yourself when in doubt about styling or sewing details, is to look at expensive ready-made clothes. They usually may be used as patterns for the correct way of sewing, styling.

Q. I am making my daughter's wedding gown of silk organza over taffeta, with a lace yoke and lace appliques. Should the long sleeves material must be very sturdy and

A. No. If you look at ready-made wedding gowns, the yokes and sleeves are left unlined for a sheer effect.

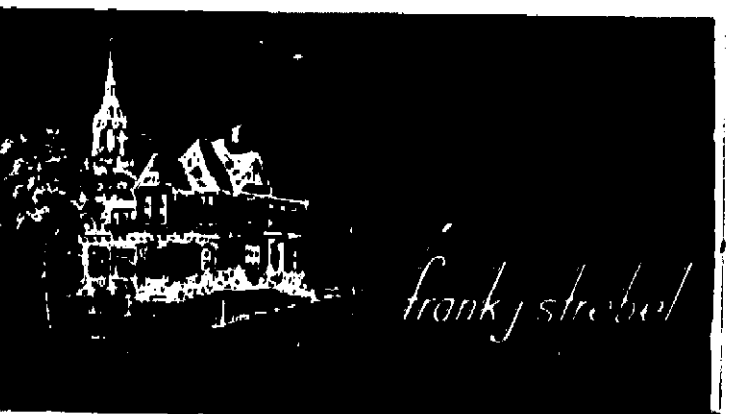

Q. How can grippers be put on nylon or any sheer material. I find that putting them on this material tears it.

A. It depends on whether you're referring to gripper snappers put on mechanically or ordinary snappers. The gripper snappers can be used on sheer fabrics. The snappers must be very sturdy and interfaced. Regular snaps can be used on sheers but only if that part of the garment with the snaps is faced. Never sew snaps on one layer of fabric.

Q. All my good suits (store bought) have a pleat in the lining back and the pleat is anchored down at the neckline, waist and hem with little cross stitches. I'm making a suit and want to know how to make this stitch.

Miss W. W. A. The catch stitch, unlike other stitches, is made from left to right but the needle is still pointed toward the left. In other words, you make the stitches backward. Fasten your thread in the pleat, bringing it up through the pleat close to the edge. Take a small back stitch in the lining parallel to the pleat about 1/4 inch to the right of where the thread came out. Take another stitch 1/4 inch to the right in the pleat, through only one layer of the fabric.

An Open Letter to the Voters of Calumet County:

On Sept. 11 we will hold our primary election. As you probably know I am a candidate for the office of Assemblyman for Calumet County.

My qualifications for this office are as follows:

I am 52 years of age, the father of four children. I was educated in the Brillion Public School system and for two years was President of its Board of Education. For the past six years I have been the Chairman of the Town of Brillion and the Township's representative on the Calumet County Board of Supervisors. Here I served on the Sheriff's, equalization, and highway committees. I have also served as a director of the Calumet Memorial Hospital Association for the past six years and am at present Secretary of that Board.

I know the problems of both small business and agriculture from actual experience.

I will meet the problems of today's Legislation as they arise for the good of the most people of the State of Wisconsin and particularly of Calumet County. I can assure you that you will be represented by a mature man, experienced by 12 years of public office and dedicated to good sound efficient government.

In all sincerity I am asking every voter in the County for His or Her Support and vote on election day.

Russia, Cuba Warned Not to be Aggressive

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's sudden warning to Cuba and Russia—the result of a Soviet th-for-lat switch in the cold war—boiled down to telling them not to get aggressive notions. It was the climax of events building up for weeks. In a statement Tuesday night

Kennedy didn't complain about the kind of military help the Soviets have given, and are giving, Fidel Castro. The kind the President listed as going to Cuba could be considered strictly defensive. But he said plainly enough that if the buildup was of the kind that could be used for aggression —like Soviet bases in Cuba—or if Castro moved against his neighbors, "the gravest issues would arise." Actually, by giving military help to Castro in America's backyard, the Soviets are doing to the United States what this country has been doing to the Communist world for years.

For example, the military help, and even alliances, this country has provided for countries around the Communist perimeter in Europe: the aid to Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa near the coast of Red China; military aid in Korea and South Viet Nam and, recently, troops in Thailand. The United States has approximately 8 000 military advisers in Communist-threatened South Viet Nam. One senator, Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., called for an invasion of Cuba. Another, Homer Capehart, R-Ind., said about as much. Still another, Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., criticized what he called Kennedy's "do-nothing" attitude. Kennedy could have brushed these complaints aside. Other senators on other subjects have had complaints. But what brought the whole business to a head was what happened Sunday.

In Moscow there was a joint Soviet-Cuban announcement which promised Russian help to Castro in building steel mills and in farming. Then it said they discussed threats of aggression from imperialist quarters. It didn't mention the United States. But it added: because Cuba asked military help to protect itself, Russia would give it "armaments and technical specialists for training Cuban servicemen."

Wednesday, Sept. 5, 1962 Appleton Post-Crescent A13
the kind of armaments but, it and perhaps a total of 3,000 Soviet technicians for setting up and carefully avoided saying the military help would include Soviet teaching the Cubans to use the electronic equipment Castro got. But he noted there was no sign of Soviet bases or Soviet combat troops in Cuba, or any other "significant capability" there in Cuban or Soviet hands. If these things showed up, he said, the "gravest issues" would arise.

Senatorial Candidate Wants Kennedy to Act Against Castro

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Emerson Rupert, Republican candidate for U.S. Senate from Florida, has called on President Kennedy to enforce the Monroe Doctrine and take action against the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba.

"We in Florida are alarmed at the buildup of Communist ships and Czechoslovakian MIG war planes within striking distance of Miami and Tampa," Rupert said in a telegram to the President.

Rupert, of St. Petersburg, is campaigning against Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla.

Plans for Ramp's Plumbing Changed

Piping in Parking Structure Didn't Comply With State Building Codes

The original plan for plumbing installations in the new municipal parking ramp now under construction did not comply with state building codes, it was learned Tuesday.

As a result, the Board of Public Works approved a change order which will call for the installation of clay instead of concrete piping. It will cost the city $455 more than anticipated.

Public Works Director Edwin J. Duszynski informed the board that the state considered a parking structure in the same category as a building and as a result the concrete pipe could not be used.

Bids Received
The board also approved brick for the facing on the ramp being built at the southwest corner of Division and Washington Streets. It recommended purchase of the brick from the Sioux City Brick and Tile Co.

Rock salt bids were opened by the board and referred to the Department of Public Works for tabulation and a recommendation. Bids of two firms were rejected because the envelopes were not properly marked, according to City Clerk Elden J. Broehm.

Bids ranged from $20.22 to $22.50 per ton for bag salt, two firms submitted quotations of $12.90 for bulk salt, and two companies also had bids of $13.90 delivered by the truckload. The Common Council will make the final decision in awarding the contract.

Salt is used on Appleton streets for ice control during the winter. In the winter of 1960-61 the city used 627 tons.

Other Business
The board approved a request of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce to install a Project 70 sign on the site of the parking structure project to give added emphasis to another major city improvement in conjunction with the business area rejuvenation.

Extension of S. Linwood Drive from Spencer Street to the city limits was recommended.

The board withheld action, pending further study by legal counsel, on a communication from Joseph J. Engel reoffering the Chicago North Western railway property to the city for $65,000.

Shannon F. Warlick, 31, route 1, Grays Lake, Ill., was fined $10 for not having sufficient life preservers in his boat.

Enrollment Hike May Hurt Appleton School Program

1,000 More Pupils Entered In Fall, Staggered Classes Possible for Next Year

Rapidly increasing enrollment in the Appleton public schools has raised the possibility of a staggered program at the high school next year and may impose limitations on the elementary French and physical education programs this year.

Enrollment has increased by more than 1,000 pupils this fall, the board of education learned Tuesday. First day enrollment figures reached a total of 9,433, compared to 8,399 for the first day of school in 1961.

The enrollment increase is greater than anticipated by about 200 pupils, Superintendent of Schools Royce E. Kurtz told the board. It includes about 540 pupils in the attached areas, with the remainder of the increase due to normal growth, people moving into the community, and pupils transferring from parochial schools.

1,500 Capacity
The high school enrollment reached 1,803 Tuesday, compared to 1,582 last year. The building has a maximum capacity of 1,500, and 1,200 to 1,250 would be preferable, Kurtz said.

With more than 1,800 pupils, we are having to do things at the high school level that we don't consider good educationally, such as using the cafeteria and auditorium for classes, he said.

The potential growth at the high school for next fall is also high, with 700 incoming sophomores expected then and only about 470 seniors to graduate this spring. Kurtz raised the possibility of using a staggered program a year from now, with classes starting early and running through the noon hour.

Elementary French
An increase of 687 elementary pupils is causing difficulties in the elementary French and physical education programs, Kurtz said. More careful screening of those receiving French on the elementary level may be necessary, he said.

French now is taught in fourth through sixth grades. It is possible that it will continue to be offered to everyone in Intermediate 1 and 2, with Intermediate 3 pupils screened according to their Force, infiltration and subversion are methods Communists employ to attain world domination, Capt. J. W. Hollenbeck, former Army intelligence officer, told the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce at its fall kick-off dinner Tuesday.

Describing how the Soviet Union had dominated many nations, "by use of force," to the audience assembled for "Americanism and Youth Night," the retired captain said the Communists "talk peace but use force and subversion to attain their insidious aims."

"Subversion and infiltration in the Americas, Asia and Africa are blandly employed, eventually to set these nations up for conquest and subjugation and the imposition of a standard of living that is 65 years behind that of the United States," he said.

Pledge Valueless
He said that the signed pledge of the Soviets was valueless and cited examples of how the Communists move to weaken United States defenses at home and abroad.

"Three actions are needed to combat this international conspiracy," the former Army officer said.

"One, inform yourself on Communism. Get on the mailing list of congressional committees investigating Communist activities."

Criticize Activities
"Two, through the press, criticize fellow-travelers and deluded pacifists who aid Communist programs."

"Three, insist on a strong military set-up, which provides a most effective deterrent, the only language the Reds understand and respect," Hollenbeck concluded.

The Jaycees presented awards to youths who had participated in Jaycee-sponsored activities in the summer.

Crash Helmets Backed for Cycle Police

Police Chief Earl Wolff wants motorcycle officers to wear crash helmets while on patrol duty.

The Council's Public Safety committee indicated Tuesday night that it favors such equipment, and recommended funds for purchase of 12 safety helmets be considered in the 1963 budget.

Chief Wolff and Traffic Lt. John Gosh said helmets are necessary for the protection of the cyclists, and are standard equipment in many police departments throughout the state.

Kaukauna Man Takes Own Life

Edwin F. Ehrlich, 72, 714 Denoyer St., Kaukauna, was found dead in the garage of his home by his wife, shortly after 10:30 a.m. today.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard Kemps said Ehrlich had taken his own life. He had been dependent since major surgery several weeks ago.

Withdraws Approval on Advice of City Lawyer, Attorney General

The Appleton Board of Education for Sunday School classes while the rental of Elmdale School to the church is being rebuilt.) The basis of the attorney general's opinion is not the specific of Appleton in Grand Chute, on the use of the building, said Nehs, an attorney and the attorney general's opinion derives any direct or indirect benefit from use of a tax-support-tional provisions of separation of church and state.

The board had authorized the school administration at its Aug. 13 meeting to enter negotiations with the St. Peter congregation for use of the school for $1 a year, for a period not to exceed two years.

Superintendent of Schools Royce E. Kurtz said then that the city system does not need the school this year but may need it in the future with expansion in that area. He advised against letting the building stand empty because of the danger of vandalism.

Would be Sound
The board agreed that it would be economically sound for the school system to lease the building to St. Peter's, but felt that on the basis of the advice requested by Kurtz's office State Department of Public Instruction and the city attorney it could not proceed with the rental. The state department based its advice on a 1961 opinion of the attorney general on the use of public school buildings by church bodies.

"I would like to see this organization get the school, but I cannot see a solution," said board member Franklin Nehs, since two official sources have advised that it would be improper.

The board questioned the effect of this opinion on the rental of school gymnasiums to parochial schools on a cost basis and other uses of school buildings by church groups.

Committee Backs Hiring of Women in Police Department

Chief Earl Wolff Asks Public Safety Group for Clerical Help

A Common Council Public Safety committee recommended Tuesday night that the Appleton police department eventually hire four women so several officers who now perform many clerical duties, can devote full attention to police work.

The committee concurred in the request for female clerical help submitted by Police Chief Earl Wolff in a letter dated July 31.

The request next must receive approval of the personnel and finance committees before a final decision is made by the council. It is anticipated the appropriation for hiring four women employees will be incorporated in the 1963 budget.

Chief Wolff explained to the committee that presently there are no civilian employees in the department handling clerical work.

'Old School'
"Apparently some of the former chiefs were from the old school and felt the police department was no place for a woman," Wolff said. He emphasized that typing and clerical duties were taking up too much time of police officers.

Specifically, Wolff recommended hiring three clerk-typists and a clerk-stenographer. Although no salaries were set for the positions, they would be $240 and $250 per month, respectfully, under the city's pay schedule program.

Members of the safety committee felt the personnel committee could establish duties and monthly pay rates for the women employees.

Although the committee favored adding clerical help to the department's staff, members thought the start of such a program should be in 1963 with the groundwork laid during the next few months.

Chief Wolff had suggested that women employees be hired "as soon as possible."

"The hiring of the personnel should not present a budgetary problem relative to salaries for the four clerical personnel contemplated in this request," Wolff said, adding, "The department has

The council sent the proposal to its airport advisory committee. Nier asked that the council make a decision on the proposed amendment by the Sept. 18 session. A pre-hearing conference on the Wisconsin CAB hearings is scheduled for Oct. 2 in Washington.

While Brown County is the operator of Austin Straubel Field, Green Bay received a notice of the CAB hearings as a user of North Central service.

New Lighting for Kimberly Okayed

Mercury Vapor Lamps Will be Installed in Business Areas

KIMBERLY—The village board Tuesday night authorized the village president and clerk to enter into agreement with the Wisconsin Michigan Power Company to have mercury vapor lights installed in business districts.

The lights will be installed in the fall on Kimberly Avenue from Railroad Street to Washington Street and on Main Street from Street and on Main Street from Street to a point in front of the high school gym. A total of 54 standards will be installed.

The agreement is to continue committee for entering agreement for 10 years after which it can be terminated by either party. The hoe and end-loader was held for village will pay a rate set by study until the water commission the public service commission for decides which of these pieces of each standard plus energy used equipment it intends to rent.

The lights will be aimed extending from turned, treated poles.

Eliminate Hot Spots
The project will be the first major street lighting improvement in the village since lights were installed in 1933.

High levels of illumination will eliminate "hot spots" that cause driver eye fatigue, the power company says. The lamps will be more than three times stronger than the present incandescent lamps.

The new system has been designed for expansion to the rest of the village as the need arises, said.

The decision by the village board culminates three years of study to determine what type of lighting would best suit Kimberly's needs.

Annex Land
Board members voted to annex property from the Town of Buchanan as requested by Van Daelwyck Land Developers Inc.

Less than 1-square mile of property is involved. It is located between the Fox River and County Trunk 2, bordering the village at the northern tip of the western portion.

A tentative plat for development of the area was referred to the planning commission. The plat will have 170 building lots. The area is to be zoned as single residential and the developer will

Executive Had Estate Valued at Over $140,000

A former executive of the W. S. Patterson Co., Appleton, Herman E. Getschow, 88, who died March 5 in Florida, left an estate valued at $143,226.

The administration cost was $4,987, and debts accounted for $2,024; burial was $2,840 and a state tax amounted to $276.

A former vice president of the Bank of Kaukauna, L. J. Merlo, who died Sept. 7, 1961, left an estate valued at $40,933 to his widow, Helen, 308 W. Wisconsin Ave., Kaukauna, and daughter, Mrs. Sallie Stoffel, Stevens Point. His widow received $30,297 and Mrs. Stoffel was left $1,675.

City Needs Preventive Medicine Project 70 Group Tells Rotarians

Service Club Hears Panel of Three Tell Plans For Improvement of Downtown Appleton

Project 70, the committee which is planning the improvement of downtown Appleton, gave its prescription for "preventive medicine" to the Appleton Rotary Club Tuesday.

W. T. Bernhard, Gus A. Zuehlke and Robert V. O'Brien, members of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, told the Rotarians the aims and methods in the Project 70 committee and it, the panelists said.

The three men said that Appleton is not unique in its problem, but the city is unique in its method of doing something about it.

Cling examples of the progress of the Appleton school system, the panelists said that this shows what Appleton people can do when they want something.

Needs Pressing
The men said they believed that the city's needs are just as directly related to the welfare of the entire community."

The panelists asked that the public support the city council and city officials who would be required to take "bold, and sometimes, unpopular action and initiative" on proposed improvements.

The men said that the council must force change and improvements or else we have no one to be often hesitant in doing anything because it cost money; the trio said they realized this, but they tried to create public opinion.

Each panelist echoed his colleagues, statements in their move to emphasize what they believed to be Appleton's needs and the correct solutions.

They ended by asking active assistance for Project 70 from the development of commercial Rotarians, not only in the membership but we are very much aware of the fact that what is citizens with "vested interests" that the city's needs are just as

Small Primary Turnout Forecast

Only 700,000 Will Vote, State
Election Supervisor Estimates

BY HARVEY BREUSCHER

MADISON (AP) — Less than a third of Wisconsin's qualified voters will turn out for the state's primary election Tuesday, is the bleak forecast from Gaige Roberts, state election supervisor.

Of the total 2,350,000 eligible voters, only 700,000 will go to the polls, Roberts estimates. A Republican scrap for the nomination for state treasurer adds suspense to the primary.

There are contested Democratic primaries for congress in the Philip G. Kuehn, 42 of Whitefish Bay and Wilbur N. Renk, 52, of only incumbent being challenged Sun Prairie are slugging Robert is Rep. Clement J. Zablocki of La Follette Sucher, 37 of Madison. Onetime state senator son, the third candidate, has Roman Richard Zablocki of Milwaukee elected to rest his chances on a wauckee seeks Zablocki's 4th district seat.

Van Pelt Challenged
Republican contests are on tap in the 2nd, 5th and 10th districts. Those are being challenged by Van Pelt, a Milwaukee businessman who in 1960 lost to Nelson.

Four other statewide races dot the party ballots, and there are contests in a half dozen congressional districts in addition to La Follette, and in the 10th, Raymond those at the county level.

Nomination Races
The office of attorney general of Mercer.

has induced nomination races in both the Democratic and Republican camps. The Democratic incumbent, again contestants are William H. Evans is the endorsed Republican candidate for secretary of state. Kuehn had to whip Lt. Gov. Milwaukee, who presently is the Warren P. Knowles, a big party deputy state attorney general favorite who was slow in declaring his intentions.

Dislikes Policy
The Republican hopefuls are Robert G. Maroltz of Madison, the State Assembly's chief clerk, and George Thompson of La Crosse, endorsement contest and hasn't the GOP candidate two years since he minced words in proclaiming his dislike for the policy.

A Democratic contest for the "To win, Wisconsin's Republican party needs a new 'mage and it'll never get it by endorsing losers," is the way Renk puts it. Like Kuehn, Renk has never held political office. But his name has gained statewide audience as a University of Wisconsin regent, the state chairman of Wisconsin's volunteer organization for former President Eisenhower, and as co-owner of a large farm operation that in addition to livestock produces a seed corn that bears the family name.

Renk describes himself as an Eisenhower Republican. Kuehn said his political philosophy is more atune to Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater.

A — Can anything be done to prevent scar tissue? Sometimes plastic surgery can make this tissue less noticeable by removing the overgrown scar itself, then with meticulous care bringing the edges of the skin together again. Changes Being Pressed by New Menasha Police Chief

Facilities, Methods, Personnel Assignments Affected by Plans

MENASHA — When he took command July 1, Menasha's new police chief found a building, records system, operating and personnel utilization methods geared to a 6-man police force.

But Chief Lester D. Clark is in charge of a 24-man force. As the department grew in manpower through the years, it didn't modernize correspondingly.

Changes aimed at modernization are in progress.

One change is making better use of the police station. A remodeling project will soon begin, to remove walls, set up small partitioned interview rooms, remove the jail cells and make up new offices for the chief and records clerk.

For years, one room has housed the records files, refrigerator, lunch table and squad room with lockers.

Some paint and imagination are making the basement usable for lockers and lunch. A new sergeant's desk and front counter are planned.

Mechanical Devices

The old records system, now almost completely phased out, meant much painful "two-finger" typing on forms by the records clerk. Now, the records are done directly by the personnel involved.

Even that will change. "I'm in favor of using mechanical devices such as the dictaphone in registering complaints. A clerk can type them off in the morning. I feel this is a better utilization of manpower. A man can talk into the machine in half the time it would take him to write it up," Clark believes.

Clark plans to ask Common Council permission to hire a woman as records clerk to do the job now held by the man assigned as police lieutenant.

"Certain administrative duties, such as filing, processing parking violations, statements and traffic forfeitures, handling juveniles, acting as police matron and court reporting would be the job of administrative clerks to replace or do all of the job now done by patrolmen, the so-called menial tasks. Identification files can be maintained by civilian personnel and done better by an expert. We are small as police departments go. Overspecialization can become a problem."

Clark does not intend to fill the third captaincy in the department, since he believes 37 per cent of the force in ranking positions would be excessive. Presently eight of the 24 are in ranks from sergeant to chief.

"The best ratio in police service is 1 to 10, but that doesn't follow in Menasha, since there are not many years, the traffic scene has been one of great congestion at 4 p.m. each day.

With new methods (including a directional-control of turns at Third and Racine) and other pre-planned changes, it is expected the traffic will move through the city more efficiently.

A more obvious change since Chief Clark's arrival have been the men themselves lacking dignifications with the patrolmen." The lieutenant, when taken from the

Site Picked For Menasha City Garage

MENASHA — In a 6 to 5 vote Tuesday night the Common Council picked a site near its present dog pound for the location of the new city garage. Three sites on the newly-purchased property on Plank Road were considered.

City Engineer Melvin Noth re- viewed the three possible sites and the work that would have to be done to prepare the sites for the city garage. He estimated the cost for one site south of Fourth Street and along the railroad at $150,000 for preparation and con- struction. A second at the north- east corner of the property east of Melissa Street had an esti- mated cost of about $173,000. The third, north of Fourth Street and closer to Plank Road, had a cost estimated at $164,500.

No Decision
City Atty. Richard Steffens pointed out the procedure under the ordinance. No recommenda- tion was forthcoming from the Board of Public Works which was split on which candidate to rec- ommend.

"Many of us aldermen know nothing about this other man," Ald. Donald Kemps said in refer- ence to Becker.

Ald. Richard Hansen explained the Board of Public Works was unable to reach a decision at its meeting last week. The clerk was to find out whether Becker was still available and the mayor was to find out Noth's plans. The may- or indicated Noth previously had been offered a job in a different city and had made no decision as to his plans.

The newly created post of executive assistant to the president will be filled by Dr. William E. White, who has served as chair- man of the speech department since he joined the O.S.C. staff in 1955. In his new post, Dr. White will assist the president in the daily operation of the college.

The new administrative organ- ization of the college divides col- lege affairs into four major areas. One of the areas covers all fi- nancial and physical operations of the college and will be admin- istered by Dr. James F. Duncan, who will be known as the dean of business affairs.

A second area will be concern- ed with the academic affairs of the college, and will be admin- istered by Dr. Raymond J. Rams- den, dean of instructional af- fairs.

As the dean, Dr. Ramsden will be responsible for the develop- ment of all academic programs, including the graduate program, and all matters relating to courses and offerings.

Because of the scope of aca- demic affairs, he will relinquish his duties as director of liberal arts and pre-professional educa- tion, a duty he carried for more than a decade in addition to his duties as dean of instruction.

The duties of director of liberal arts and pre-professional education will now be administered by Dr. Herbert L. Gaede, who will be directly responsible to Dr. Ramsden. His title will be co-ordinator of the division of arts and science.

As the new director, Dr. Gaede will be responsible for the academic affairs of some 1,500 liberal arts and pre-professional students, and the direction of various academic advisers in the area of liberal arts and pre-pro- fessional education. He joined the geography staff at O.S.C. and has served as chairman of the curriculum committee.

A third administrative area will be concerned with student affairs and will be administered by Dr. E. O. Thedinga, who will be known as the dean of student af- fairs. His administrative respon- sibility will include all non-aca- demic services and activities for students.

The fourth administrative area will be concerned with public in- formation and will include super- vision of college publications, such as the college catalogue.

State Commission to Get Revised Bridge Petition

'Technicalities' Have Been Ironed Out of Resolution, Attorney Says

MENASHA — A new petition is being sent the State Highway Commission for a bridge over Little Lake Butte des Morts from the end of Ninth Street.

The Common Council adopted a revised resolution to petition for the bridge to meet certain "technicalities" which City Atty. Richard Steffens said were met by the previous resolution.

One of these "technicalities" was that the original petition did not state it was filed in pursuant to Chapter 84 of the state statutes. Steffens said this statement was in the closing paragraph of that original petition.

Cost Trends Turn In Favor of U. S.

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Comparisons between what it costs U.S. manufacturers to turn out goods and what it costs manufacturers in other industrialized nations to produce are turning steadily more favorable to U. S.

Wages have been rising at a much faster rate outside the United States in recent years than here. At present wages are, as Prentice-Hall puts it in a privately circulated letter on economic trends, showing "amazing steadiness in most industries." Average hourly wages were $2.39 in the first half of this year against $2.32 in all of 1961 and "virtually the entire 3 per cent rise occurred over the last half of 1961."

Wholesale prices also have been rising at a much faster rate in most other nations than here. Our wholesale price level has barely moved for years. The same goes for the cost of living comparisons.

Competitors Squeezed
Wages and wholesale prices are, of course, key elements in the cost of producing goods. The rope's tariff walls against us pattern which has caused an in-ensifying profit squeeze in our country is emerging in the economics of our competitors. They are, it might be said, "catching up" to our problems.

These trends are of the utmost importance to the future of all of us. They can be crucial in helping us to accelerate our rate of growth in coming years, to attain and sustain prosperity, to protect the value of the U.S. dollar.

They signal a rise in our ability to sell goods produced here in other countries, thereby making jobs, paychecks and profits for Americans. They flash a message to U.S. corporations to step up their efforts to export more goods, particularly to European countries which have labor shortages and which want to control costs by installing American-made labor-saving equipment.

Buying in Europe
They indicate Europe's average families will be ready to buy more of our consumer goods too, for the simple reason that their paychecks are fatter. They underline the urgent need for getting the 1962 trade act on the books without crippling amendments so that the administration will have the power to bargain down European tariffs against us and our manufacturers will be able to penetrate Europe's flourishing markets with even more competitively priced goods. The following table graphically tells the tale. The original data from the International Monetary Fund was put into index form by Prentice-Hall. The indexes assume 1957-59 as the base year of 100. Now here is how trends in U.S. and foreign costs and output compare as of spring-summer 1962.

Country	Wages	Cost of Wholesale Industrial Living Prices	Product's
Japan	125	117	186
Germany	127	109	102
Italy	117	108	100
France	135	120	100
Australia	111	107	98 not avail.
England	112	109	108
Canada	113	105	105
Sweden	125	111	106
United St.	113	105	101

Only in Australia and England have wages in recent years risen more slowly than in the United States—and the difference is tiny.

Only in Italy have wholesale prices not moved at all, only in Australia have they actually declined, and the rise here from 100 to 101 over this period of time is stability by any yardstick. Only Canada has kept living costs down as much as we have. As for industrial production, only England and Canada have the dubious distinction of showing a more sluggish rise in output than we.

We have restrained wages and prices in the last few years and, for the sake of our competitive position in a fiercely competitive world, we must continue to restrain the rises.

We have finally faced up to the realities of the profit squeeze on in U.S. business, and the administration has gone on the line with a pledge to help relieve it next

Brazil Seeks To Encourage Immigration

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazil seeks people to fill its vast empty spaces. It has an average of 21 persons living on each one of its 3.3 million square miles. Italy has 20 times more people per square mile.

Political instability, a decline in expansion and growing restrictions on the transfer of money abroad have brought a sharp decline in migration to South America. Brazilian authorities estimate migration has fallen by as much as 50 per cent since 1950. This has the Brazilian government worried. Foreign labor largely was responsible for the dramatic growth of the Sao Paulo industrial complex, the an migration. Bastian Haveman, director of the Sao Paulo industrial complex, says the committee may create a special fund of $73 million to guarantee private investment in farm colony programs. The committee plans to stimulate the creation of mixed farm colonies, using nationals and foreigners. This would mean a new migration policy, linking the flow of migrant workers directly to development programs of the countries. Brazil has shortages of specialized help both in agriculture and industry. The inflow of immigrants is estimated at 60,000 a year.

Rail Strike Continues Serious Inconvenience

No Real Problem for 10 Days
Seen at K-C's Kimberly Mill

The strike of Railroad telegraphers on the Chicago and North Western Railway continues to be a serious inconvenience for Fox Cities industries, but so far no major plant shutdowns appear imminent.

Kimberly-Clark Corp. whose mill at Kimberly is served by the North Western anticipates no serious problem for another 10 days.

Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., Kaukauna, Combined Locks Paper Co., and Appleton Coated Paper Co., all served by the North Western, report the situation is unchanged. All are experiencing inconvenience and trouble, but none are anticipating any shutdown in the near future.

Loading Facilities
Business continues above-normal at the Soo Line and the Milwaukee Road as industries served by the North Western use loading facilities at these two lines.

Striking telegraphers and railroad workers began making applications for strike benefits Tuesday. They will receive $10.20 a day from the day the strike began.

Kaukauna's Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon informed the council Tuesday night he had sent a telegram to President Kennedy asking him to intervene in the Chicago and North Western telegraphers strike and to do everything possible to bring the strike to an immediate end.

National Economy
Bayorgeon indicated the economy of much of the nation was threatened and undo hardships could be created if the strike were permitted to continue. Several other Fox Cities mayors already have sent telegrams to the president.

The strike went into its seventh day today and prospects for a quick settlement appeared dim. Francis A. O'Neill Jr. of the Federal Mediation Board said he would meet today with representatives of the telegraphers' union.

Met Separately
O'Neill met separately for two hours on Tuesday with negotiators for the North Western and the Order of Railroad Telegraphers.

The mediator said no quick settlement appears possible in the strike, which has hampered movement of grain and cattle in nine Midwestern states.

Ben W. Heineman, chairman of the North Western, agreed. He told newsmen that the strike may continue for weeks and possibly months.

Will Remain Closed
"The railroad will remain closed as long as necessary, even if it means months," Heineman said. "The principle involved here is such that it would stop progress not only on the North Western but in the whole railroad industry."

The North Western and the telegraphers have been at odds for five years over the issue of whether telegraphers' jobs can be eliminated.

Efforts Failed
More than 1,000 union members went on strike Aug. 30 after efforts by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg and Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago failed to produce an agreement.

The negotiators have been discussing recommendations of a presidential emergency board, which submitted a 10-point program of employee protection in the elimination of jobs considered superfluous by the railroad.

The North Western accepted the recommendations but the union rejected them. The union wants the right of arbitration and a ceiling on job elimination.

aptitude for a modern foreign language, he said.

Higher enrollment may also cut down the services of physical education resource teachers at the Primary 1 and 2 level, he said.

When 1,000 pupils are added to the school system, it takes a while to work out the program, Kurtz said. With the attached schools, a period of adjustment is necessary in some areas until we catch up, he said.

Filled To Capacity

James Madison is now the largest junior high school, with an enrollment of 620. Junior high enrollment jumped 126 to a total of 1,898.

The pinch at the elementary level is being felt in the northern tier of schools, with Lincoln, Franklin and Huntley filled to capacity. This raises the question of how long we can wait for the proposed northwest elementary building, and shows why we may want to add to the Elmdale School eventually, Kurtz said.

Planning for a new senior high school is in the preliminary stages, with bonding scheduled for 1964. Architects have been named for a new northside junior high school, which is planned for operation in the fall of 1964.

parking tickets and money received through the mail; send out follow-up letters to persons who do not pay parking meter fines; type telephone complaints on sheets; answer call boxes when the desk sergeants are busy; answer and send teletype messages; keep the Civil Defense radio log; assist with preparation of reports; type letters for the chief; open mail addressed to the police station; prepare arrest reports for court; prepare accident reports requested through insurance companies and private parties; and assume other duties.

Alderman Robert J. Stumpf, committee chairman, said it had been necessary to postpone action on the chief's request on two occasions because he wanted three aldermen present at the meeting to give the matter thorough discussion.

Improve Records
Chief Wolff said he plans to improve the department's record-keeping, compile statistics on the cost of police vehicle maintenance, prepare reports on the daily activities of officers, and survey all present functions and how much time spent on them. He also listed other future programs related to administration.

Among the disclosures by Chief Wolff were that:

The police department gets 50 per cent compliance on parking meter tickets issued, and a considerable amount of work is involved sending out follow-up letters.

Certain record-keeping procedures should be improved in the future.

Considerable time is being expended by officers distributing hundreds of notices of defective sidewalks, a task which should not be classified as a police function.

Olson Wants More 'I' Roads In Wisconsin

Candidate Claims State Should Get 400 Miles More

Wisconsin needs and is entitled to 400 additional miles of Interstate highway mileage, Jack Olson, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor and secretary of the Wisconsin Good Roads Association, today told the Appleton Downtown Kiwanis Club.

Olson said the additional mileage would bring a million more visitors to the Fox Valley annually.

This state was "drastically shortchanged when the super road mileage was allotted to the states in 1956," he said.

Asks More
"Why is it that we pay 2.2 per cent of the nation's highway user taxes and receive only 1.1 per cent of the Interstate system mileage?" Olson asked.

Neighboring states of Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois and Michigan are building two and three times the mileage Wisconsin has, he told the Kiwanis members.

Olson said West Virginia recently had received a "completely unjustified" 180-mile addition to that state's Interstate system mileage.

"Why must Wisconsin be milked of huge sums annually to build super roads in other states and contribute to our own economic competition?" he asked.

Olson said that there was a good chance the state can bring this four lane, non-stop, limited access road into the Fox River Valley from the Madison-Milwaukee area.

He said eighth district congressman John Byrnes has been a leader in the fight to increase the state's "I" mileage.

Two Escape Serious Injury in Accident

Mrs. Dorothy Spierings, 2908 E. Wisconsin Ave., and her 2-year-old daughter, Kay, escaped serious injury when the car they were in left State 96, traveled 500 feet through a field and hit a small tree Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Spierings, driver of the car, told county police she became distracted when her daughter jumped up to hug her. She and her daughter were examined by a physician and released. The car was traveling east on State 96 in the Town of Vandenberg when the accident occurred.

ball game, instruction, or other purposes is immaterial, he said in giving his interpretation of the opinion.

Dr. A. Neil McLeod asked if the problem could be settled by the congregation forming a non-profit private school corporation. Neils said he doubted this, because if the corporation is controlled by a religious organization it would receive indirect benefit from use of the building. The Wisconsin constitution is one of the strictest in this area, and the court has been strict in interpreting it, he noted.

Has Effects

"That interpretation jeopardizes many other activities we are presently undertaking," said Victor Summitt. It has many ramifications, affecting the school nurse program and other services in the parochial schools, he said.

"If we accept this it is pretty far-reaching," he said. "I would like to see more clarification before we go off on a revision of a program that has been historically sound and never challenged in the past."

"I think if we go along with this, we have got to interpret our use of buildings very strictly," said Dr. McLeod. We will have to scrutinize all rentals on the basis of church organizations, he said.

Since the Elmdale School is not to be leased, Kurtz asked for permission to use it for school purposes. It could be used half days for kindergarten class by transporting pupils there from other areas, he said, but it is likely that it will be used as office space for resource teachers. The board in the past has tried to avoid transporting kindergarteners.

State Takes Over Responsibility For Upper Fox

MADISON — The Wisconsin Conservation Commission has formally accepted responsibility from the U. S. Corps of Engineers for the entire upper Fox River complex, extending some 97 miles from Portage to the junction of the Fox and Wolf rivers at Lake Butte des Morts.

The transfer marks the climax of more than 10 years of planning and legislation on the national, state and local levels. The transfer gives the State Conservation Department control of 45,000 acres of lowland, with a vast potential for fish and wildlife management. It also gives the public title to 16 different parcels of land ranging in size from 2 to 60 acres, most of them located near the nine lock and dam sites on the river.

Detailed plans for resource management on the whole 45,000-acre lowland area, including development of public access at Eureka and Grand River, are now being worked out by the Conservation Department.

CAB hearing order for Wisconsin were Ashland-Ironwood, La Crosse-Winona, Land O'Lakes-Rhineland, and the Wisconsin River Valley choices of Wausau, Marshfield, Wisconsin Rapids and Stevens Point.

The hearings on North Central service was the second set ordered by the CAB after a 1961 policy statement toward development of regional points for air service. The first hearings were in New England.

Major Point

The major point in the CAB examination is whether better future airline service would not result from airline stops at airports for regions as opposed to the present pattern of local stops, now being worked out by the North Central airlines had endorsed the hearings.

Three Sea Epics Due Soon for Moviegoers

Excellent Casts, Plots Reported
For Both 'Billy Budd,' and 'Defiant'

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The new movies...
During the next few months, moviegoers are going to wonder how the British navy ever found Budd. His great achievement in "Billy Budd" is evoking a memorable time to fight the French around performance in the title role by the end of the 18th Century. It is a young British actor, Terence Stamp, who seems that the fleet's off-stamp. His fetching, tow-headed ears and men spent most of the innocence is perfect for the role time fighting each other. He is an immediate star, this Stamp.

Big Mouthed Gal Creates Mystery Spot

BY TV SCOUT
9-10 (Channel 2)—The Steel Hour builds up some nice suspense in "Dry Rain" as we wonder how John Kerr and Phyllis Newman can get out of the spot her big mouth put them in. There's a film-y basis for the story, but if you accept that the test follows neatly Miss Newman plays a dealer in a gambling casino, with Kerr the law student working as a headwaiter during the summer. A romantic quarrel causes her to make some wild suggestions that they rob the place, but the suggestions don't sound so wild to eavesdropper Johnny Desmond.

7-7:30 (Channel 11)—Come along on a boat ride down the Current River from Round Spring to Van Buren, Mo., on Focus On America. Unless you are a Missourian, you'll probably be surprised at the beauty of the scenery here (this is Ozark country) and be amazed at some of the sights along the shore. It's a time look at a part of America millions have never seen.

7-8:30 (Channel 2)—Checkmate repeats one of its better stories, primarily because there is a different type of leading character. Angie Dickinson plays a girl just released from prison after serving a term for espionage. The public feels strongly about her case and Checkmate is hired by a do-gooder to protect her.

8-9 (Channel 11)—Hawaiian Eye's repeat is a fair story and, as an added plus, it lets you see a lot of Connie Stevens. She has one of her biggest parts as she goes undercover to find out who has been killing some of the "greeter gals" and why.

8-9 (Channel 4-5)—The Mystery Theater repeats a 1958 Desilu Playhouse suspense story, and it's worth seeing again. Eddie Albert and his wife, Margot, have the leads and the drama is well-plotted. The idea behind "The

Almost Angels' New Walt Disney Movie

Walt Disney again has good news for the families searching for a movie attraction to see together. He is bringing back one of his most successful cartoon features, "Lady and the Tramp," and combining it with a new live-action film, "Almost Angels."

"Lady and the Tramp" was one of the most felicitous of the Disney features, if not the funniest. Humor was largely by-passed for warm characterization, a good score and a sentimental to Van Buren, Mo., on Focus On America. Lunts May Return to Broadway in 'Minister'

NEW YORK (AP)—Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, the theater's No. 1 acting team may return to Broadway in a new Emile Ragnold play, "The Chinese Prime Minister." The plot concerns an elderly actress, and the title derives from the Chinese tradition of venerating old people.

The staging rights are held by Ronald Productions, which consists of Donald Seawell, Haila Stoddard and Helen Bonills.

8-20-9 (Channel 2)—Dick Van Dyke's brother, Jerry, makes the first of two guest appearances in a row on The Dick Van Dyke Show repeat tonight. He's short and heavy, but a very skilled comedian.

9-10 (Channel 11)—Naked City repeats an odd story this week, which benefits more from its actors than its script. The story tells of a reunion of two army buddies — Neville Brand as a big, naive Indian, and Peter Falk as a tough city boy. Their dream had been to buy a piece of land and farm it, but now Falk is a hired killer and loves the work.

10-10:12 (Channel 4-5)—Tonight's guests are Phil Foster, Virginia Graham, Lenny Kent and Louise O'Brien. (Color)

Menominees Urged to Sell Electric Utility

Interior Department Finds Poor Earnings, Need for Revamping

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The public service commission says that the United States Department of Interior urged the sale of the electric utility of the Menominee Indians after a survey of the property and its operation two years ago.

The reference to the federal government recommendation was contained in the commission's approval of the sale of the property to the Wisconsin Power and Light Co., which is being contested by some of the residents of new Menominee County who demand that Menominee Enterprises, the Indian management corporation, continue to own and operate the generation and distribution system.

Poor Earning Rate

The commission said that the federal report found a poor earning rate of the utility under Indian management, that there was need for substantial expenditure for the rehabilitation of plant, and that there was a heavy total of delinquent accounts on the utility's books.

The commission also said that with the inadequacy of present revenues to finance required plant improvements, a rate increase would be likely under continued management of the utility by Menominee Enterprises, Inc. Under the new ownership by the private utility, the general scale of rates charged by the utility will apply to the Menominee County customers. Some will be higher, and some will be lower, although there will be a net increase in charges.

$100,000 Price

The commission said it has examined the historical and reproduction cost factors involved in the utility plant and concluded that the $100,000 sale price is a fair one and "consistent with the public interest."

The sale agreement includes the leasing by the company of the Keshena hydro-electric plant at an annual rental of $15,000 which includes the $1,500 annual payment the plant formerly paid to the department of interior for flowage rights.

Minding Your Business

MAZE OF RED TAPE TANGLES IMPORTING BUSINESS TODAY

DEAR CY:
We have relatives in Denmark who make lovely shelves and ornaments of teakwood. I got a letter asking if I could sell some of their work in America. They are dying to get some sales over here, and I would break my back to help them. There is no doubt in my mind that what they make would sell well here. Nothing like this work is on the market, in either design or quality. Do I have to get an importer's license? Is there a lot of legal red tape in bringing goods into this country to sell, from another country?

DEAR INGA:
A bona contractor would be strangled by the red tape in the importing business. But, by keeping frustration under control and studying the regulations, you could do it. Neither the regulations for a person importing merchandise nor customs laws require a license. But you will need a copy of "Imported Merchandise General Requirements" to get your mind turning in the right direction. Write the Collector of Customs, in care of the U.S. Treasury Department at Washington, for your copy.

DEAR CY:
I am looking around for a small mail order business that could be operated from my home. Two companies appeal to me most. Neither requires any purchases of products on my part. They will sell me their catalogues. I mail the catalogues and pass on the orders I get to them. . . with payments, minus my percentage. One firm features catalogue items for new babies, and the other has catalogues on a variety of things, which they will send me after payment of the original fee of $20. Attached is their literature. Which is best?

DEAR KENNETH:
The baby item deal you can ease. I can't imagine your getting the 2 per cent standard return from any mailing you'd make with this poor quality literature.

The second offer is worse! The cost is $20 just to peek at it. Before you send any cash, insist on references (including a bank) and total costs. The Better Business Bureau says, "It (the $20) is probably the most important source of his income from the scheme, regardless of the sale of literature to those who become double victims."

DEAR CY:
Charities are having a most difficult time obtaining donations, and ours is no exception. We are competing with literally hundreds of other worthy charities for the money we need to support our two employees are viewing operations at lumber mills in Idaho of hard working women, we never and Montana. They are expected seem to make our quota. We were to return with new knowledge of wondering if you could think up advance sawing and material something to raise some money handling methods, plant layout this fall. Maybe a bazaar, or and machinery.

Edie's Busy Nowadays

Ernie Kovacs' Widow Needs Notebook to Stay Organized

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
A few months ago, when Edie Adams was suddenly a widow after Ernie Kovacs' death in an automobile crash, she faced the future with some degree of uncertainty. Currently she has so many things on the fire that she keeps a large black notebook containing all the activity which is filling her life.

At the moment she is winding up the movie, "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," in which she plays a full-sized role.

"Before that I'd done what were really bit parts," she said, as she submitted to a bit of fussing over her blonde wig by the studio hair stylist. "But although this part is bigger, they still have me playing a dizzy blonde—I'm always Daisy Mae."

Eternally Daisy
Producers may have Edie eternally typed by the part she played several seasons back in the musical comedy "I'll Abner," but she is a level-headed, well-organized young woman.

"Things are working out pretty well," she admitted. "I've just finished a new record album. When this movie is finished, I start on the first of my eight ABC specials. If I find the time, I will play Las Vegas for two weeks in October, and if I can't, I'll do four weeks in January. And I've got commitments for supper clubs in New York and San Francisco—when you pull together an act, you want to play it in various places to make money with it."

"I have commitments to make commercials—five a year for my sponsor. And we've got some plans for a couple of television specials—book-shows, including 'Oh, Captain!'"

Very Busy
Edie is, in fact, so busy that she couldn't even consider playing Belle Poitrine in the forthcoming Broadway musical adaptation

Reds Hand Milwaukee Sixth Straight Loss As 4,508 Fans Watch

Eddie Mathews Whacks Pair Of Home Runs

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The baseball season is drawing to a close—and it's just as well for the Milwaukee Braves. They're still setting club lows in the final month of the campaign.

In ability to combine good pitching with good hitting proved costly once again Tuesday night as the Reds pulled out a 9-6 victory in sending the Braves down to their sixth straight defeat before a chilled crowd of only 4,508 at County Stadium.

The Milwaukee hitters banged out 14 safeties, including a pair of homers by Eddie Mathews, but the pitching failed and the Braves bowed for their longest losing streak of the season.

Spahn Hit Hard

Southpaw Warren Spahn was hit hard by the Reds in search of his 15th victory of the campaign and No. 324 of his career. Spahn surrendered nine hits, including a two-run homer by Vada Pinson in the first, a three-run blast into the right field stands by John Edwards in the fourth and another tally in the fifth, before leaving for a pinchhitter while trailing 6-1.

Mathews hit his 24th homer in the first inning to break the Braves' scoreless string which had extended 21 innings. The Braves then added three runs in the fifth as Bob Taylor led off with a single while hitting for Spahn. A single by Roy McMillan, a fielder's choice and Mathews' second homer high into the bleachers in right narrowed the count to 6-4.

Back's Kick Return Of 72 Yards Set Up Winning Touchdown

GREEN BAY (AP)—The Green Bay Packers rested Tuesday, as might be expected after their 20-17 exhibition victory over the New York Giants the previous night.

Coach Vince Lombardi and his aides ran off movies of the triumph while some of the players went over the game verbally among themselves.

Elijah Pitts, who returned a 72-yard punt to set up the winning touchdown, said, "I saw daylight. I should have scored."

Asked how he decides whether to call for a fair catch or two-point conversion, Lombardi said, "I saw daylight. I should have scored."

Pitts, Willie Wood and Herb Adderley gave the Giants fits with their kick returns.

"That was the story of the game," Lombardi said. "We've worked on this phase of the game but to no great extent. We're getting good blocking and some fine individual running."

The Packers end their exhibition season—they've won 18 straight—Saturday night at Columbus, Ga., against the Washington Redskins.

They begin defense of their National Football League championship here Sept. 16 against the Minnesota Vikings.

Colts Defeat Phillies for First Time

BY MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers, big bad bandits on the basepaths, have stretched their National League lead to 3½ games on a sudden burst of speed by the unlikely desperado of them all—catcher John Roseboro.

The 5-foot-11, 195-pound Dodger receiver came barreling home in the fifth inning of Tuesday night's key battle with second-place San Francisco, sliding in safely with the run that turned out to be the clincher in a 5-4 squeaker over the Giants.

The Dodger triumph, besides boosting their edge over the Giants, equalled the key four-game series between the leaders at one game apiece and gave the Dodgers a substantial edge with 23 games remaining before the NL awards its blue ribbon.

3 Quick Runs

It looked like an easy one for the Dodgers, who struck for three quick runs off Giants' starter Billy Pierce in the first inning on run-producing hits by Tommy Davis, Frank Howard and Ron Fairly. The Giants got one back against Pete Richert in the fifth on Tom Haller's homer.

Then Roseboro took over. After Lee Walls singled, Big Bad John lashed a triple, and stole home for the second time within a week.

Ron Perranoski came on for the Dodgers to protect the lead, but ran into trouble in the ninth when a single by Harvey Kuenn and a homer by Jose Pagan brought the Giants within one run—Roseboro's run. Perranoski, however, bore down, striking out sluggers Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda to end it.

Perranoski was credited with the triumph that ensures the Dodgers the league lead at the end of the four-game set. He is 5-3. Pierce lost it, his fifth against 13 victories.

Third-place Cincinnati remained 6½ games back, using Marty Kousser's homer for a 9-6 victory over Milwaukee. St. Louis belted the Chicago Cubs 7-1 on homers by Stan Musial and Gene Oliver while Harvey Haddix pitched and batted Pittsburgh to a 5-1 decision over the New York Mets.

Snaps Strak

And, at Houston, the Colts snapped their 17-game losing streak to Philadelphia, beating the Phils 4-1 behind Bob Bruce's four-hitter without the elaborate jinx-breaking production which they tried Labor Day. Hexer Kid Dugan, however, claimed vindication.

"I guaranteed results," he said after the game. "And you see what happened. We won it."

Jofre-Medel Bout Re-Set Sept. 11

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—The 15-round world bantamweight championship bout between Eder Jofre of Brazil and Jose Medel of Mexico, scheduled for Thursday night, was postponed Tuesday until Sept. 11.

Promoter George Parnassus said the bout was postponed because Jofre, the champion, had a painful shoulder bruise. However, local radio stations said the match was moved up in an effort to increase interest and the gate.

to toughen it. Several retirements and hundreds of successful conversions later, Agajanian was still able to smile about the accident that almost finished his career.

Asked by a football player's father how to make a placekicker out of his son, Agajanian answered:

"Cut off his toes."

7-Year Veteran

Now he's out of a job again, along with seven-year veteran L. G. Dupre, heralded quarter-back Lee Grosscup and Olympians Ray Norton and Ted Woods, in the NFL cutdown.

Two trades also were concluded in the final maneuvering to get down to the 38-man limit. Another two must go by next Tuesday's final cut to 36 players.

The Los Angeles Rams traded linebacker Bob Pellegrini, a six-year veteran, to Washington for a high 1964 draft choice. In a three-cornered deal, Dallas traded Dick Bierski to Baltimore, the Colts sent a high draft choice to St. Louis and the Cards turned over kicking specialist Jerry Norton to the Cowboys.

Dupre, who was a vital cog at halfback in Baltimore's 1958-59 season, was traded to the Redskins.

Angels Down Yankees With Late Rally to Tighten Flag Race

White Sox Edge Indians; Twins Are Rained Out

BY JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

"The game's not over until the final out," might be a trite old battle cry—but for the amazing Los Angeles Angels it's a way of life.

Following the script they've used so often this season, the Angels humbled the New York Yankees 7-6 Tuesday by pouring across six runs in the seventh inning and producing the winner in the ninth. It was the 16th time this year they've scored the clincher in their last turn at bat, and the 33rd time they've come from behind in the final three innings.

It was a day of multiple shocks for the Yankees, whose American League lead over the rain-aided Minnesota Twins was cut to 2½ games and over the third-place Angels to 3½.

Even before game time, the Bombers received a disheartening setback when the muscular but fragile slugger Mickey Mantle was disabled in a batting practice mishap. Mantle tore the lining loose from his rib cage taking a hard cut, missed the game completely, and is expected to be sidelined for several days.

Chicago Edges Indians

In other AL action, the Chicago White Sox edged Cleveland 3-2 on Al Smith's pinch single in the 13th inning and Kansas City whipped Boston 7-2. In addition to the Twins-Senators postponement at Washington, the Detroit Tigers and Orioles were rained out at Baltimore.

through six innings and trailing 4-0, the Angels cut loose with one out in the seventh. Lee Thomas smacked a two-run homer, Billy Moran singled in a run, two more scored when Tony Kubek let a potential double play ball skip through his legs, and the sixth run came in on a ground out.

Clete Boyer pulled the Yanks even in the eighth when he homered with one on, but the scrambling, gambling Angels counter-rallied in the ninth. Joe Kopp led off with a single off Bud Daley, who struck out the next two men but then yielded a walk to Leo Burke and a deciding single to Bob Rodgers.

Rigney 'Gambled'

The winning pitcher was Julio Navarro, just up from the Pacific Coast League and in his second big league game.

"Sure I gambled with him," said Manager Bill Rigney. "That's the way we've done it all year." Navarro held the Yanks after replacing Jack Spring in the eighth.

Koufax Out For Season, Says Alston

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sandy Koufax, Los Angeles Dodger southpaw who was having his best season when a hand nerve block sidelined him July 17, will do no more pitching this year.

So says Dodger Manager Walter Alston, who has called up right-hander Jack Smith of Omaha, the American Association's top relief pitcher. Smith, who had a 17-7 record at Omaha, reports today to bolster the sagging Dodger mound corps.

The Dodgers have been sweating it out with what amounts to a seven-man pitching staff, the smallest in the majors, with Koufax incapacitated and Larry Sherry out with a sore arm and an ankle injury.

The right half position should be the strongest on the team with Junior Wayne Koenig being the No. 2 man. The sturdy Koenig is the No. 1 left safety on the 5-4-2 defensive platoon.

Umnus has decided on most of his starters in the last two full weeks of practice. Dennis Tiedt will open at left end and either Gary Mattek or junior Larry Kahler will take the right flank.

Both Mattek and Tiedt are lettermen.

Ken Neubert will hold down the left tackle job with either Bill Thorn or Gary Coontway filling the position on the right. Neubert, Thorn, Don Arps and Don Gosdeck are the lettermen of the tackle corps.

Latest to depart is Lee Folkins, the sophomore end, who went to the Cowboys of Dallas in exchange for an undisclosed draft choice. Coach Vince Lombardi now has reduced the squad to 37 players—one above the league-game total, which must be in effect next Tuesday.

Folkins Means One Other Player Was Traded Tuesday, and Three Were Waived, One Because of Injury. Paul Dudley, the rookie defensive back, was traded to the Giants for a draft choice and Ben Agajanian, the ageless booter, quarterback Bob Joiner and tackle Dick Davis were put on waivers. Placed on the injured waiver list was half-back Howard Williams.

Replaces Bielski

Folkins will replace Dick Bielski at tight end and the promising prospect stands a chance of stepping into early action.

Lanky Lee represents the sixth draft choice obtained by Lombardi via the trading marts. This Dudley Folkins means that the Packers will come out of the next draft with 26 players—six above the limit.

Departing the Packer scene in trades were Tom Bettis, Steelers; John Suto, Cowboys; Ernie Green, Browns; Ben Davidson, Redskins; Dudley, Giants; and Folkins, Cowboys.

All but Suto stand a good chance of sticking with their new clubs. Suto was waived by the Cowboys and the 49ers then took a look at him. The 49ers also waived him.

The Packers will get a look at big Ben and a couple of other ex-Packers, Dale Hackbart and Bobby Freeman, when they meet the Redskins in Columbus, Ga., Saturday night.

The Packers' player business leaves the club with five rookies, a large group for a world championship team. The simon-pures are offensive ends Gary Barnes and Oscar Donahue, defensive lineman Ron Gassert, guard Ed Blaine and fullback Earl Gros.

4 Wisconsin Gridders on Injured List

MADISON (AP)—Wisconsin's first football scrimmage of the season this afternoon will feature the aerial game as Coach Milt Bruhn continues a search for a top quarterback.

Front running candidates are Ron Vanderkelen, John Fabry and Harold Brandt, although Brandt has been bothered by a sore arm. Others in contention for the post are Arnie Quaerna and Bob Allison.

Bruhn said the all around passing has improved daily and he still is hopeful.

The Badgers' first full scale scrimmage is set for Saturday.

In Tuesday's pair of workouts the line underwent a quarter hour of scrimmage as a unit, with ends and backs also getting in some contact.

Four players are on the injured list. Pete Heebink pulled a thigh muscle. Jon Hohman developed a foot blister. Jim McMillan still has a bruised shoulder and Rick Reichardt is improving from an ankle operation.

AP Learns Belinsky Will be Traded to A's

Colorful Rookie To be Delivered At End of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—The Los Angeles Angels have sold no-hitter southpaw Bo Belinsky to the Kansas City Athletics for delivery after the 1962 season. The Associated Press learned from an authoritative baseball source today.

Delivery of Belinsky to the A's is part of the deal in which the Angels acquired right-handed pitcher Dan Osinski from the Kansas City farm team in Portland.

Officials of the Los Angeles Angels, in New York for a vital series with the Yankees, refused to confirm or deny the report. The Los Angeles Times also reported the deal.

"Get your own damn confirmation," was the reaction of one club official.

First Put on Waivers

The source told The Associated Press that the Angels first put Belinsky on waivers in order to deliver him to Kansas City in exchange for Osinski.

The Washington Senators put in a claim for Belinsky and halted the trade. The Angels then paid $35,000 for Osinski, with the promise they would deliver Bo to Kansas City as soon as the season ended.

Osinski joined the Angels July 24 working exclusively in relief. He has compiled a 5-3 record and has saved four other games.

Belinsky, a cocky semi-reformed pool shark, pitched the first no-hitter in the American League in four seasons when he beat the Baltimore Orioles 2-0 on May 5.

He was immediately clutched to the hearts of Hollywood, with a resultant drop in his effectiveness. From a 7-2 record, he fell off to

Perranoski Surprised Dodgers End Game on Pitch That Broke 'The Wrong Way'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers go into the third conflict of their current crucial series tonight.

The suggestion was advanced that the Giants, now 3½ games behind the Dodgers, might be shouldering the burden of the National League pennant race.

"You mean the pressure is on the Giants now? The pressure," said honest Walt Alston, head man of the Dodgers, "was on them when this series began."

The Dodgers won Tuesday night 5-4 in a contest that was brilliant and harrowing for both sides down to the last out.

The end came on a strikeout of Orlando Cepeda on a pitch by reliever Ron Perranoski that the young star admitted later broke where he didn't intend it to.

Roy Emerson Beats Riessen In Tournament

Flu-Weakened Karen Susman Also Triumphs

BY ED CORRIGAN Associated Press Sports Writer FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—

Frank Froehling, a tall, hard-hitting 20-year-old predicted today he could beat "unbeatable" Rod Laver—if only he could learn to concentrate.

"I've played Laver several times," said Froehling, a junior at Trinity University in Texas. "He's beaten me each time, but I've played him on a pretty even keel. If I could learn to concentrate, I think I could beat him."

Froehling is America's sixth-ranked player and is seeded eighth in the current national championships. It's something of a distinction in view of the fact that Chuck McKinley, No. 3, is the only other seeded American.

Froehling played Cliff Drysdale of South Africa in the third round today. Only 11 matches were played Tuesday before rain interrupted the proceedings at the West Side Tennis Club. This was the second rainout in a week.

The big question today was whether Mrs. Karen Hantz Susman would recover enough from her flu attack to continue in the tournament. Wimbledon queen Karen from San Diego, Calif., is seeded No. 2 in the women's division to Margaret Smith of Australia.

Karen defeated Mimi Arnold of Santa Barbara, Calif., 6-1, 8-6 Tuesday but just managed to last the match out. When it was all over, her husband, Rod, said she would have had to default if she had lost the second set.

Miss Smith made short work of Stephanie De Fina of Hollywood, Calif., 6-0, 6-1 to lead the way into the third round. Defending champion Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., seeded No. 5, downed Jan Lehane of Australia, 6-4, 6-3, and Maria Bueno of Brazil, seeded No. 3, and the champion in 1959, whipped Dede Catt of Britain, 6-4, 8-6.

Roy Emerson of Australia, defending champion, and seeded second behind Laver, jumped into the fourth round of the men's division by defeating Marty Riessen, Northwestern junior, 6-2, 11-9, 6-3.

Bob Van Schyndel Takes Driving Honors at Fair

Bob Van Schyndel of Kaukauna, was the leading driver in the harness racing held at the Dickinson County Fair at Norway, Mich. last weekend.

Van Schyndel rode five winners. In the 16-class trot he rode Dr. Yates owned by Ed Woodke of Gillett to a pair of victories. In the same event, Ithural, driven by John Huffin of Seymour finished fourth in one trip and third in another.

In the 21-pace on Labor Day, Little Phil, owned by Mrs. Henry Van Schyndel of Kaukauna and driven by Bob Van Schyndel won the first trip and then was cut badly in a mishap in the second trip and did not finish.

The free-for-all pace saw Richard Dorman, of Kaukauna, drive Santa Song to a second place finish.

John Lindberg Loses Final Match, 2 and 1

Bob Martin defeated John Lindberg, 2 up and 1 to play, to win the Butte des Morts golf championship in a scheduled 36-hole match Monday.

Dick Garvey emerged as the winner in the President's Flight with a 2 up and 1 to play victory over Jim Van Rooy. Elmer Honkamp defeated Jim Gustman, 1 up, in the Vice President's Flight.

Mark Catlin won the Secretary-Treasurer's crown by defeating Milt Rueckl, 1 up on the 20th hole, and Phil Vanderheiden beat Pete Traas, 1 up on the 19th, in the Director's Flight champions hip match.

Lindberg and Don Strutz carded the week's low rounds at Butte des Morts. Both registered 71s.

Next in line came Tom Frawley with a 72. He also had a 76.

Strutz also posted scores of 78 and 76.

Chicago Writer Says Bears, Lions Will Tie For 'Western' Crown

BY BOB SMITH Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO — Given license to make a public fool of myself, here's how I see the National Football League races for 1962.

The Bears and Detroit Lions will tie for the Western Division title, each with a 9-5 record. The Philadelphia Eagles will win the East with 10-4.

Yes, the Green Bay Packers are the best fortified team in the NFL, perhaps in the history of pro football. And no, that doesn't necessarily mean that they're going to win the title again.

In 14 straight weeks, the Packers are going to have to overcome a "beat the champ" effort from the opposition, which includes Philadelphia and St. Louis, the two strongest clubs in the East.

Better Club

And, although their exhibition record is 0-4, the Bears will field a better club than they did last year.

This year the Bears draw Dallas (away) and New York (home) for Eastern competition. Just an outside speed.

And we can't see much of a 9-5 if they maintain their same gain in swapping Milt Plum for pace in the West.

But 9-5 probably won't give Make them sole ownership of a title. That puts the solid St. Louis Look for the Lions to get a share Cardinals second with 9-5, where Getting Green Bay down from they might have finished last 11-3 to 8-6 will take some doing, year had they not been stricken but we think it's possible. That with an incredible series of in-would give the Packers a share of third with Baltimore.

The Colts have a fantastic pass-back in John Ferguson and John ing game (John Unitas to Ray-Henry Robinson. Parlayed with mond Berry-R. C. Owens-Jimmy that steel girder defense, the Orr-Lenny Moore) and may roll Steelers figure for an 8-6 year.

Pittsburgh has two hammering backs in John Ferguson and John ing game (John Unitas to Ray-Henry Robinson. Parlayed with mond Berry-R. C. Owens-Jimmy that steel girder defense, the Orr-Lenny Moore) and may roll Steelers figure for an 8-6 year.
